College senior Adam Wodka (left) with Wharton student Eric Maxon at the fifth hole (par 3) of Rolling Greens, a nine-hole golf course (par 37) that they built in Wodka’s attic bedroom. Wodka’s best score is 34, but the course record, 31, goes to one of his housemates. “To break par requires some strategic ricochets and some lucky bounces,” he reports.