Professor Jamal Elias says Pakistan is crowded with trucks and buses “completely covered in a riot of color and design. They might spew diesel fumes; they may take up all of the winding, narrow, under-maintained road one is trying to negotiate, but they are certainly noticeable.”