About this Handbook

LPS has produced this handbook to provide a useful source of information to orient you to Penn and assist in planning your program of study. Students are required to read the handbook; it contains rules and regulations, procedures, options, curriculum requirements, resources at Penn, and other pertinent information. Read the entire handbook before you begin classes. Continue to reference the handbook frequently during your career at Penn to remain aware of your obligations as well as to investigate the many support services and academic opportunities available to you. Students are responsible for adhering to all LPS policies, procedures, and academic deadlines, and for consulting with advisors on a regular basis in order to optimize their undergraduate experience. Please check the LPS website periodically for updates.

Getting Started Checklist

PennKey and Password

http://www.upenn.edu/computing/pennkey/

A PennKey is required to authenticate, or verify, an individual’s online identity and to access many of Penn’s networked computer systems and services. Authorized users need a PennKey and Password to access such resources as Penn’s wireless network (AirPennNet), Penn InTouch, Blackboard, Canvas, and certain library resources, among others. A PennKey is also required to obtain a Penn email address.

If you are new to Penn, you will receive your PennKey Setup Code via e-mail or US mail. If you have not received a PennKey setup code within 10 business days after you submit your “Intent to Enroll” form, check the spam or junk folder of the email account you provided when you applied to be certain the Setup Code email was not filtered there mistakenly. If it is not there, contact pennkey@isc.upenn.edu to obtain additional information and instructions for obtaining a Setup Code. For complete details on options for obtaining a Setup Code visit: http://www.upenn.edu/computing/pennkey/setreset/

NOTE: Penn employees will utilize their current PennKey and Password for student access.

https://www.sas.upenn.edu/computing/help/students/email

All students enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania—including Penn employees who may already have a Penn email through another division—are required to obtain and use a Penn SAS email address, which is available free of charge. The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) provides email accounts for LPS students. Instructions on how to create and use a Penn email address are available through the SAS Computing. The PennKey is needed in order to create a Penn email address. For assistance with technical difficulty in setting up the SAS email account, do not call LPS. Refer instead to the help links located at the above link.

As an SAS student, you will create an email address based on your PennKey. For example, if your PennKey is "bfranklin", your email address will be "bfranklin@sas.upenn.edu". This is the address that is entered for you in the Penn directory and is the address that your professors, advisors and others at Penn will use to communicate with you.

When you sign up for your SAS email address, you have two choices for mail delivery:

1. google@sas logo Use Google@SAS

Google@SAS is a suite of email and collaboration tools customized specially for Penn students. It is based on the popular GMail and Google Apps services. When you select Google@SAS your SAS email will be delivered to this special account. See more information about Google@SAS

Please note: Newly admitted students will be eligible for Google@SAS starting in May 2012. Students admitted prior to May 2012 will be able to sign up for Google@SAS later in the summer of 2012.

2. Forward to an existing account you have with another provider

You'll provide the address for an existing email account, and your SAS email will be delivered to that account. Please see our tips for how to optimize your personal email account to work with your SAS email address
Penn Directory

www.upenn.edu/directories/

Students must update contact information in the Penn Directory by logging into the above link and clicking on Update Directory Listing. It is required that you update your SAS email to the Directory in order to allow professors and advisors to contact you, and to receive important information through the LPS list serve.

LPS Listserve

By setting up a student SAS email account and updating it in the Penn Directory, LPS undergraduates will be automatically subscribed to the LPS listserv to ensure that they receive strategic information from LPS in a timely manner. It is the student’s responsibility to set up an SAS email account and to keep their contact information updated in Penn InTouch and in the Penn Directory so that they are able to receive up-to-date information and notifications.

Complete the Online Getting Started Workshop

http://www.sas.upenn.edu/lpsnso/

The Online Getting Started Workshop is required of all incoming LPS students enrolled in undergraduate programs. Complete the workshop before consulting with an advisor. To find the workshop, visit the link above.

Set up an appointment with your LPS General Academic Advisor

After completing the Online Getting Started Workshop, and setting up your PennKey, PassWord, and SAS email, call the LPS Records Office to set up a telephone or in-person meeting with your LPS advisor—please note that appointments cannot be arranged via email. If you wish to email your specific inquiries and concerns directly to your advisor, you may do so by clicking the email link (advisor name) provided in your Penn InTouch student record.

Registration Tutorial

- Billing information
- Financial aid application status and awards
- Student loan application status, disbursements and loan history
- Online course registration
- Course schedules and academic records
- Academic Planning Worksheet for checking progress toward graduation
- Updating selected address information
- Student Health Information
- Privacy settings for release of academic and financial information to parents or partners.

Penn InTouch is normally available except for the following to allow daily system maintenance: 4:00a.m. - 6:00a.m. Tuesday through Sunday, 3:00a.m. - 6:00a.m. on Mondays. In addition, some functions within Penn InTouch may be unavailable for brief periods during nightly processing.

Business Hours

The Penn Card Center is open during regular University business hours:
Monday - Friday, 8:30 am to 5 pm

The PennCard Center
Second Floor of Penn Bookstore
3601 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104-3895
In addition to being the required identification for members of the University community, the PennCard provides access to University facilities and services. This official photo identification provides the Penn ID number, and allows eligible students access to Penn buildings where their classes are held, PennCash, library services, Penn Transit services, dining plans, Student Financial Services account charge privileges, ATM and bank debit card privileges, and gyms and recreational facilities.

Students who have registered for courses may obtain a PennCard by bringing a valid form of photo ID (driver's license, passport, etc.) to the PennCard Center. The PennCard should be carried at all times.

Penn Employees: Penn employees registered as students at Penn are required to update their employee identification card with a PennCard that reflects both their staff and student status; doing so will provide both categories of access to University resources and facilities.

LPS New Student Orientation (NSO)

http://www.sas.upenn.edu/lpsnso/

LPS New Student Orientations are held in the fall and spring semesters. Students admitted to LPS in the summer may attend the fall orientation. Additional information can be found on the LPS website.

Student Health Insurance

www.vpul.upenn.edu/shs/insurance.php/ 215-746-3535 option #3

The University requires all full-time students to maintain medical insurance with coverage for in-patient care and catastrophic illness and injury. Students may satisfy insurance requirements through private or employer-sponsored plans or through enrollment in Penn Student Insurance Plan. All full-time students must either enroll in PSIP or submit a waiver indicating alternative coverage. Students who fail to provide information about coverage will be enrolled and billed for PSIP.

Part-time students may enroll voluntarily in PSIP, but they are not subject to the insurance requirement, and will not be enrolled by default in PSIP. Coverage for the Student Health Service (either through the Clinical Fee or through enrollment in PSIP) is optional for part-time students.

For more information students may use the above contact information.
Immunization Compliance Office

http://www.vpul.upenn.edu/shs/immunization.php 215-746-3535 option #4

Students enrolled in the College of Liberal and Professional Studies are part of the University community and benefit from the University's efforts to provide a safe and healthy environment. All LPS students are required to comply with immunization requirements upon first enrolling in credit courses. To comply, students must complete an online Pre-Matriculation Health Record at the link above.

Student Health Services can provide missing immunizations at a fee that covers costs. Required vaccines are covered at 100% for students enrolled in the Penn Student Insurance Plan (PSIP). In the event of an outbreak of a communicable disease in any Penn class, all students in that class would be required to comply immediately with the University's immunization requirements.

Office of Student Conduct

http://www.upenn.edu/osc/

The Office of Student Conduct (OSC) is responsible for acting on behalf of the University in matters of student discipline. OSC deals with alleged instances of academic dishonesty and other student misconduct, in order to determine how best to resolve these allegations consistent with the goals and mission of the University as an educational and intellectual community.

Mission

It is the purpose of the student disciplinary system to further the educational mission of the University by resolving alleged violations of the Code of Student Conduct, the Code of Academic Integrity and other applicable policies regarding student behavior. There are numerous ways complaints about alleged student misconduct can be resolved. These include the formal disciplinary process as outlined in the Charter of the Student Disciplinary System, referral to the University Mediation Program, and referral to other University resource offices.

The Office of Student Conduct at Penn has twin goals: to help create a safe environment where academic life can flourish; and to promote the development of students.

Our student disciplinary process is meant to set the standard for behavior on our campus and to determine a student's standing in the community. It is not meant to replace or substitute for the criminal justice system or other legal avenues.
However, the student disciplinary process provides an important additional forum to respond to the interests of the Penn community. Our processes are designed to educate and, where appropriate, sanction those students who violate our rules. We seek both to promote a student's sense of responsibility by enforcing accountability, and to protect our community by, where necessary, removing or restricting those who may pose a threat to others.

Finally, our Mediation Program is available to everyone in the Penn community to facilitate the constructive resolution of disputes (excluding academic integrity complaints). Our intention is to emphasize the peaceful and productive handling of conflict when possible and where appropriate.

The Office of Student Conduct encourages your feedback, input and consultation. We strive to be a safe, helpful and professional resource for the entire Penn community.

Code of Academic Integrity

Since the University is an academic community, its fundamental purpose is the pursuit of knowledge. Essential to the success of this educational mission is a commitment to the principles of academic integrity. Every member of the University community is responsible for upholding the highest standards of honesty at all times. Students, as members of the community, are also responsible for adhering to the principles and spirit of the following Code of Academic Integrity.

Academic Dishonesty Definitions

Activities, that have the effect or intention of interfering with education, pursuit of knowledge, or fair evaluation of a student’s performance are prohibited. Examples of such activities include but are not limited to the following definitions:

A. Cheating: using or attempting to use unauthorized assistance, material, or study aids in examinations or other academic work or preventing, or attempting to prevent, another from using authorized assistance, material, or study aids. Example: using a cheat sheet in a quiz or exam, altering a graded exam and resubmitting it for a better grade, etc.

B. Plagiarism: using the ideas, data, or language of another without specific or proper acknowledgment. Example: copying another person’s paper, article, or computer work and submitting it for an assignment, cloning someone else’s ideas without attribution, failing to use quotation marks where appropriate, etc.
C. Fabrication: submitting contrived or altered information in any academic exercise. Example: making up data for an experiment, fudging data, citing nonexistent articles, contriving sources, etc.

D. Multiple submission: submitting, without prior permission, any work submitted to fulfill another academic requirement.

E. Misrepresentation of academic records: misrepresenting or tampering with or attempting to tamper with any portion of a student’s transcripts or academic record, either before or after coming to the University of Pennsylvania. Example: forging a change of grade slip, tampering with computer records, falsifying academic information on one’s resume, etc.

F. Facilitating academic dishonesty: knowingly helping or attempting to help another violate any provision of the Code. Example: working together on a take-home exam, etc.

G. Unfair advantage: attempting to gain unauthorized advantage over fellow students in an academic exercise. Example: gaining or providing unauthorized access to examination materials, obstructing or interfering with another student’s efforts in an academic exercise, lying about a need for an extension for an exam or paper, continuing to write even when time is up during an exam, destroying or keeping library materials for one’s own use, etc.

*If a student is unsure whether his action(s) constitute a violation of the Code of Academic Integrity, then it is that student’s responsibility to consult with the instructor to clarify any ambiguities.

Student Codes of Conduct Enforced

In addition to the Code of Academic Conduct, Penn students are expected to adhere to the provisions of all other codes as well. More information on these codes is available at the above link. They are:

* Code of Student Conduct
* Code of Academic Integrity
* Policy on Acceptable Use of Electronic Resources
* Guidelines on Open Expression
* Acquaintance Rape and Sexual Violence Policy
* Sexual Harassment Policy
* Anti-hazing Policy
* Alcohol and Drug Policy
* Bicycle Policy

The Student Disciplinary System does not handle alleged violations of the University's parking regulations.
Student Responsibility with Advisors

Students are responsible for the following in their relationship with academic advisors:

- Be active and informed participants in the advising process and learn to take responsibility for the shape of their education and definition of their life goals.

- Read the letters and publications sent to them from Penn and the LPS Office, especially the BA Student Handbook. Read emails from the University, LPS Office and advisors and use the information available on the Penn and LPS websites throughout their undergraduate years.

- Be aware of the LPS Academic Calendar, especially LPS registration-related deadlines which in many cases differ from those in other Penn divisions and have important financial and academic implications. LPS students must adhere to LPS Academic Calendar deadlines regardless of the division offering the courses in which they may be enrolled.

- Use Penn InTouch to make course and grade type status selections. Confirm the accuracy of registration changes by signing back into Penn InTouch; the transcript and schedule will reflect the most updated adjustments.

- Schedule and honor appointments with advisors, and call or email in advance to cancel or reschedule if necessary. Students who are significantly late for advising consultations may be required to schedule for another day, as advisors often have other student or administrative meetings to honor.

- Prepare for advising sessions by having a list of questions and issues to discuss. Make written notes of the information provided in advising meetings.

- Seek advising well in advance of peak volume periods such as the start of classes, important academic deadlines and exams. Students may email advisors with their inquiries, or, they may schedule telephone or in-person consultations.

Confidentiality

In high school, students' grades and other records are considered their parents' property as much as their own. In college, students' academic and medical records are considered their own property. Penn's policy regarding student information is that students are adults, and the University generally will not share their academic and other records (apart from directory information) with third parties without their explicit consent. This is in accordance with the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act. Though there are situations in which the University can choose to divulge information without a student's consent (for example, if they are listed as dependents on their parents' tax returns), for the most part, students must decide who has access to their academic record. They can indicate whether or not they wish their parents or partners to see their educational records using the Privacy Settings screen on Penn InTouch.

As students begin their careers at Penn, it is very important for them to think carefully about their own responsibility and to have a discussion with their parents and partners about these confidentiality rules. LPS expects students to be aware of their grades, course registration and all other aspects of their academic career. The Penn InTouch system provides 24-hour access to this information. The LPS advisor is there to help students make the most of their academic career, and the University provides a wide range of support services for both academic and non-academic concerns. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with these services and make use of them when appropriate. While there are many people at Penn who can help, ultimately it is the student who must take responsibility for the decisions he or she makes.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

You will make countless academic decisions during your time at Penn. You will choose courses, declare a major, and define your academic goals. You will need to examine your performance in different courses, and identify your skills and those you wish to develop. Ultimately, you will need to decide what really matters to you, and how you will pursue your objectives. Much of these assessments you will do yourself, but academic advisors can help.

LPS students will have access to a general academic advisor through LPS, as well as a major advisor provided through the department of their chosen discipline. The name of the LPS academic advisor will appear in the student’s Penn InTouch screen under Advisors. This listing is also an automated email contact link. If no advisor name appears in Penn InTouch, students should contact LPS Records by calling 215-746-7040.

Students are strongly encouraged to avail themselves of the advice and counsel of LPS advisors for clarification of the transfer credit process, general degree requirements, policies and procedures; for assistance in the selection and registration of courses; for aid in identifying campus resources and support services; and for assistance with academic questions and problems.

Upon official declaration of the major, students are provided with a major department advisor, whose name and email link will also appear in Penn InTouch. The major advisor will offer advice and counsel on all matters related to the major, as well as oversee and authorize requirements and update that portion of the Penn InTouch Academic Planning Worksheet. LPS students will at the same time retain the LPS general advisor who remains first point of contact for all matters outside of the major.

LPS advisors offer consultation via email correspondence as well as by scheduled telephone or in-person appointments. Students can schedule by calling LPS 215-746-
New students need to complete the Online Getting Started Workshop, set up their PennKey, PassWord, and SAS email before scheduling with an advisor. Continuing students are strongly encouraged to consult with advisors on a regular basis to update the academic planning worksheet in Penn InTouch and to confirm academic progress.

TRANSFER CREDIT EVALUATION

ALL transfer students are strongly urged to begin the transfer credit evaluation process upon submitting their intention to enroll; all LPS students are REQUIRED to submit transfer credits for evaluation no later than during their first semester at Penn. A fully completed transfer credit evaluation is what allows the advisor to accurately determine your class standing, and to provide a thorough audit of those Penn requirements satisfied by former coursework, and those that remain outstanding.

The LPS advisor, and in some cases the major advisor, will assist the student in making appropriate course selections while course work is under review. Transfer credits are posted to the transcript and updated to the Penn InTouch requirements worksheet in batch cycles throughout the year; the LPS advisor can assist in determining how approved transfer credit can be applied toward general requirements at Penn.

In general, transfer credit may be awarded for academically-based courses at a regionally accredited institution, passed with a grade of C or better, and that are similar in content and classroom meeting hours to the curriculum on this campus. At Penn, credit is awarded in course units. Courses taken for fewer than forty contact-hours each term will not transfer but, when appropriate, might be combined with other courses to give credit.

Credit is authorized by academic departments offering similar course content. At the sole discretion of the department, approved courses may be assigned a Penn equivalent course number, or credited as a free elective. The LPS advisor can assist in determining the appropriate department to evaluate a course in cases where it is unclear.

Credits transferred from other institutions will become a part of the student’s official record, but former grades will not be placed on the Penn transcript or be used in calculating the cumulative grade point average.

The maximum number of approved transfer course units that may be counted toward the degree is limited to one-half the total number required toward the degree. Use of transfer credit to satisfy major requirements is at the sole discretion of the major department. Transfer credit may be used to fulfill Foundational or Sector requirements if a designated equivalent Penn course number is assigned, except in the case of the Quantitative Data Analysis and the Writing Requirements, which in most cases must be completed at Penn.
Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement: can only be satisfied by courses taken at Penn. In some cases exceptions to the restriction on transfer credit may be made for transfer students. A transfer student who wishes a course taken prior to matriculation at Penn to be count toward the QDAR may petition the committee. The committee turns down more petitions than it accepts. To file a petition, the student should:

1. read the criteria for QDAR courses;
2. send a letter to the chair of the Quantitative Data Analysis Education Committee (c/o Kent Peterman in the College Office) indicating why the courses should count;
3. include a copy of the transfer-credit form for the course, if available, and, most importantly:
4. include a syllabus and as much relevant documentation as possible about the parts of the course that make it suitable for the requirement, including exams or assignments.

The following courses are approved for transfer students without a petition:

STAT 111
CHEM 053 or 54

Departments evaluating courses from other institutions for transfer students assign these course numbers only if they meet the criteria for the QDA requirement.

Once your former coursework has been evaluated through XCAT, your LPS academic advisor will assist in assigning them toward general requirements according to academic policies set forth by the executive curriculum committee.

Many incoming transfer students were enrolled in courses in progress at the time they submitted their application to LPS, and will need to submit to LPS an updated, official transcript once all of their grades are posted. Updated transcripts should be sent by the previous institutions directly to the College of Liberal and Professional Studies, to the attention of your assigned advisor:

AP CREDIT

The ETS code for LPS is 2986.

The University of Pennsylvania recognizes that many incoming students have participated in special programs of study that may earn them college credit or placement. These programs include exams such as Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate, SAT II, GCE A-levels, and other international exams as well as courses taken at other colleges or universities before matriculation at Penn ("pre-College" credit). It is important that students understand the policies governing the award of credit in these cases since they will be responsible for submitting the appropriate materials.

If you have taken courses for AP credit that are eligible to count toward your degree at Penn, contact College Board to have your scores sent to your LPS advisor. The ETS code for LPS is 2986. Once your scores are received, your LPS advisor will verify eligibility based upon the minimum score required by the corresponding department at Penn, and enter them into your transcript. For a list of eligible courses and qualifying scores, please visit the following link (but be careful NOT to use the CAS ETS school code which is different from LPS):

THE BACHELOR OF ARTS DEGREE

LPS provides its undergraduates with a broad general education that will lay the groundwork for critical and creative thinking in all fields. Ideally the graduate of LPS will be:

- well informed about the world and at home in today's complex technological society
- willing and able to make critical judgments and to exercise intellectual leadership
- prepared for specialized scientific and scholarly research, for education for the professions, and for the informed exercise of the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

The B.A. curriculum is designed to lead students through a structured process of decision-making to construct a program of studies that reflects both their interests and the aims of a liberal arts education. The major, through which students will concentrate at least a third of their course work in a single disciplinary or interdisciplinary field, is a key structural element of the program. Throughout their careers, students will take a number of electives, normally 20, that enable them to sample possible fields for their major and also to explore a variety of fields outside their major. Together, the major and electives are structured to enable students to become familiar with the variety of domains of knowledge and modes of inquiry that constitute the arts and sciences in a leading research university. Associated with both the major and the electives are a number of requirements. Students must satisfy all of the requirements prescribed for their programs. As they make decisions about how to fulfill the various elective and major requirements, students also should consider their larger educational goals:

- What field does a student find most intellectually stimulating to the point of wanting to make it the subject of his or her most advanced and accomplished work?
- What other fields will a student explore in order to gain some understanding of the various sectors of knowledge as configured in the College of Liberal and Professional Studies curriculum and how they relate to one another?
- How will a student pursue the study of a foreign language most profitably to gain insight not only into the structure of language but also into the fabric of a different culture?
- How will a student use the opportunities offered by various writing assignments to sharpen analytical skills and expressive abilities?
- How can a student become more sophisticated in his or her understanding of quantitative information in the various forms in which it is encountered in contemporary life?

LPS’ B.A. degree is designed to assist students in accomplishing the following goals:

- To develop not only knowledge about the world but also the critical, creative, and conceptual tools to be able to add to that knowledge
- To develop a detailed understanding of a few domains and an appreciation for a broad range of human endeavors
- To be able to view a problem from a variety of perspectives, appreciating the kind of understanding that each allows
- To be able to convey to others in concise and effective ways the nature of the student’s understanding
- To develop the skills that will underlie a lifetime of adding to a student’s knowledge and to that of others.

THE LPS B.A. CURRICULUM

A curriculum is often identified with a set of degree requirements: “What do I have to do to receive my degree?” But degree requirements are not themselves sufficient to define appropriate educational goals. If you think of your education solely in those terms, the result will be dull and unsatisfying.

Curriculum comes from the Latin for course, in the sense in which one might speak of the course of a journey. The term "curriculum" denotes a means rather than an end, but it suggests better than the term 'degree requirements' what it is to become educated. It denotes a movement from a starting point to a destination, a movement that proceeds along some path. You are not left to your own devices to figure out how to get from here to there. But neither is the path straight and narrow. You will have many choices to make as you negotiate the course of your education, but they will be informed by the experience of the faculty, who in the curriculum offer their considered advice for your educational journey.

LPS’ B.A. curriculum draws you toward two distinctive goals: toward general education across the wide range of the arts and sciences and toward specialized education in a major. A commitment to holding these two—general and specialized education—together has been the genius of American higher education since the early part of the last century.
We continue to believe that these two elements constitute an education best suited to enabling intelligent individuals to live humane, productive and fulfilling lives in the 21st century.

The total number of course units required for the B.A. is equal to the number required for the major (varies from 12-16) plus 20, a total of 32-36 CUs. Students must complete requirements in Foundational Approaches, Sectors, and their Major, as well as Free Electives. Students must work closely with the LPS advisor to ensure they fulfill their General Requirements, and with their major advisor to ensure they meet all major requirements.

General Requirements

The LPS’ general education curriculum for its part has two broad objectives. It seeks to develop in you some general skills or approaches to knowledge and to engage you in the intellectual work of the disciplines in a variety of fields across the arts and sciences.

In following this curriculum, you will be guided by two kinds of degree requirements corresponding to these two objectives. One deals with foundational approaches, the other with specific disciplines and fields of knowledge. Within any given course, these two—an approach and a field of study—are integral to one another. An approach is learned by practice in relation to a field of knowledge: your ability to use a foreign language is developed through learning about the culture in which the language is rooted; understanding a work of art is acquired by learning how to write about it—that is, by learning how to use words to describe, compare, question and argue about works of art and the contexts in which they were created and are appreciated; you learn how to analyze quantitative data by thinking about what data mean for our knowledge of natural or social phenomena we observe. Some courses, however, give priority to developing skills and approaches, while others give priority to the field under investigation.
Foundational Approaches

The Foundational Approaches are key intellectual capabilities demanded in a variety of disciplines:

Communication: Writing Requirement, Foreign Language Requirement
Analysis: Quantitative Data Analysis, Formal Reasoning and Analysis
Perspectives: Cross Cultural Analysis, Cultural Diversity in the U.S.

Writing Requirement

Writing is the primary medium through which the quality of a student's intellectual work will be judged. The ability to express oneself clearly and persuasively in writing is fundamental for success across all academic disciplines, and throughout one's personal and professional life. For these reasons, writing plays a central role within the LPS curriculum.

Foreign Language Requirement

Participation in the global community is predicated on the ability to understand and appreciate cultural difference, and nothing brings this more sharply into focus than the experience of learning a foreign language. The foreign language not only affords unique access to a different culture and its ways of life and thought, it also increases awareness of one's own language and culture. For this reason, every B.A. candidate in the School of Arts and Sciences is required to attain a certain degree of competency.

While students often opt to satisfy the Language Requirement by continuing to study the language that they have already begun in high school or earlier, the wealth of languages that the University offers is such that many students decide to explore a new culture and area of our globe by beginning a foreign language that they have never studied before. French, Spanish, and sometimes German are taught at the pre-collegiate level, but students are less likely to have been exposed to Arabic, Chinese and Japanese—let alone Uzbek or Hausa—and each of these languages is a mode of access to a fascinating culture and history.

Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement

In contemporary society, citizenship, work and personal decision-making all require sophisticated thinking about quantitative evidence.

B.A. students in LPS must complete a course that uses mathematical or statistical analysis of quantitative data as an important method for understanding another subject. Through such study, students learn to think critically about quantitative data and the inferences that can be drawn from these data. They also gain experience with the use of quantitative analysis to interpret empirical data and to test hypotheses.
Courses in calculus and computer science do not fulfill the requirement because these courses do not require students to analyze actual data sets with the goal of evaluating hypotheses or interpreting results. To count toward the Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement, a course must include such data analysis.

Formal Reasoning and Analysis

In contrast to Quantitative Data Analysis courses, which deal with inductive reasoning, courses designated for this requirement focus on deductive reasoning and the formal structure of human thought, including its linguistic, logical and mathematical constituents. These courses emphasize mathematical and logical thinking and reasoning about formal structures and their application to the investigation of real-world phenomena. In addition to courses in mathematics, this requirement includes courses in computer science, formal linguistics, symbolic logic and decision theory.

Cross Cultural Analysis

In our increasingly interconnected world, the Cross-Cultural Analysis Requirement aims to increase students' knowledge and understanding of socio-cultural systems outside the United States.

LPS students are required to take at least one course to develop their ability to understand and interpret the cultures of peoples with histories different from their own. The focus may be on the past or the present and it should expose students to distinctive sets of values, attitudes and methods of organizing experience that may not be obtained from American cultures. This exposure to the internal dynamic of another society should lead students to understand the values and practices that define their own cultural framework.

Cultural Diversity in the U.S.

(Required of students admitted in Fall 2008 or later only)

The Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement complements the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement and aims to develop students’ knowledge of the history, dynamic cultural systems and heterogeneous populations that makes up the national culture of the United States.

LPS B.A. students admitted in Fall 2008 and later are required to take at least one course to develop the skills necessary for understanding the population and culture of the United States as it becomes increasingly diverse. Through historical inquiry, the study of cultural expressions and the analysis of social data, students will develop their ability to examine issues of diversity with a focus on race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class and religion. The goal is to equip graduates with the ability to become perceptive and engaged members of society.
Sector Requirements

The seven Sector Requirements are intended to ensure breadth of education across the sectors or fields of knowledge, along with interdisciplinary explorations that link several fields of knowledge.

LPS degree candidates must fulfill the same sector requirements as students enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The major requirements provide in-depth knowledge in the area of concentration (see section on Majors below), and the courses outside of the major provide the breadth of learning that characterizes a liberal education. The Sector Requirements expose students to the variety of disciplines and approaches to knowledge pursued in the modern university, and helps students make informed choices about their majors and the rest of their studies. Accordingly, students typically choose a major after they have completed courses in a number of sectors.

The Seven Sectors are as follows:

I. Society

Courses in this sector use many analytical techniques that have been developed to study contemporary society, with its complex relations between individuals and larger forms of mass participation.

Some Society courses are largely devoted to the analysis of aggregate forms of human behavior (encounters, markets, civil society, nations, supranational organizations, and so on), while others may focus on the relations between individuals and their various societies. While historical materials may be studied, the primary objective of Society courses is to enable students to develop concepts and principles; test theories; and perfect tools that can be used to interpret, explain and evaluate the behavior of human beings in contemporary societies. This objective will be realized through the specific content of the various courses, but the emphasis in each course should be on developing in students a general capacity for social analysis and understanding.

II. History and Tradition

This sector focuses on studies of continuity and change in human thought, belief and action.

Understanding both ancient and modern civilizations provides students with an essential perspective on contemporary life. Courses in this sector examine the histories of diverse civilizations, their cultures and forms of expression, their formal and informal belief systems and ideologies, and the record of their human actors. Students should learn to interpret primary sources, identify and discuss their core intellectual issues, understand the social contexts in which these sources were created, pose questions about their validity and ability to represent broader perspectives and utilize them when writing persuasive essays.

III. Arts and Letters

This sector encompasses the means and meaning of visual arts, literature and music, together with the criticism surrounding them.

Most courses in this sector are concerned with works of creativity—paintings, films, poetry, fiction, theatre, dance and music. They generally address a considerable breadth of material rather than an individual work or artist. The objective of Arts and Letters courses is to confront students with works of creativity; cultivate their powers of perception (visual, textual, auditory); and equip them with tools for analysis, interpretation and criticism. This objective will be realized through the specific content of the various courses, but the emphasis in each course should be on developing and strengthening in students a general capacity for understanding meaning and the ways in which it is achieved in its distinctive environment of culture and moment.

IV. Humanities and Social Sciences

This sector comprises courses that combine methods and approaches at work in at least two of the first three sectors.

Students will engage with diverse approaches to society, history, tradition and the arts. Greater depth of experience is gained by bringing to bear several humanistic and social scientific perspectives upon a single issue or topic or by engaging directly in academically-based service or performance informed by these perspectives.

V. Living World

This sector deals substantively with the evolution, development, structure and/or function of living systems.

Courses in this sector study the variety of approaches that are useful in understanding the diversity of living organisms, their interrelatedness, and their interactions with their environment. Analytical approaches employed range from analyses at the molecular and cellular level, to analyses of the cognitive and neural bases of behavior, to analyses of evolutionary processes and ecological systems. Students learn the methods used by contemporary natural science to study these topics, including ways in which hypotheses are developed, tested, and reformulated in light of new research findings. A full understanding of living organisms incorporates insights from approaches at many different levels.
VI. Physical World

This sector focuses on the methodology and concepts of physical science.

Courses in this sector aim to provide insight into the content and workings of modern physical science. Some courses in this sector are part of a major, while others are designed primarily to provide an introduction to the field for non-science majors. Courses for non-science majors may include some discussion of the historical development of the subject as well as the most important conceptual notions and their mathematical expressions. All courses in this sector seek to demonstrate the generally accepted paradigm of modern science: experiment and observation suggest mathematically formulated theories, which are then tested by comparison with new experiments and observations.

All courses in this sector use a significant mathematical prerequisite (advanced high school algebra through introductory calculus) – that is, students will actually be expected to use mathematical methods and concepts to achieve an understanding of subjects in physical science.

VII. Natural Science and Mathematics

Students should engage with the diverse approaches to the natural sciences and mathematics more deeply than a single course from the physical and life sciences would allow. Greater depth of experience can be accomplished by either greater focus on one area, study in a related area, bringing various scientific perspectives to bear upon a single issue or topic, or engaging directly in academically-based activities informed by these perspectives.

In this sector, students broaden their perspective by taking a course in the natural sciences or mathematics that has been approved as a General Education course and that cuts across the two sectors. Other courses approved for this sector will seek a more integrative approach by addressing a problem or topic from a variety of disciplinary perspectives. Still others will combine disciplinary study with community service or activism, constructively and reflectively connecting the theoretical with the actual.

Free Electives

In addition to these structural elements, the curriculum provides space in your studies for a number of Free Electives. These give you the freedom to pursue interests that may lie outside your major and that extend beyond those addressed in the General Education curriculum. Take a course in a field that you have not otherwise encountered. Use one or more Free Electives to explore further a subject introduced in a sector course. Or learn about a subject that sheds light on your major.
THE MAJOR

The Major provides an opportunity to know a segment of human knowledge deeply, with a sufficient grasp of its modes of thinking and analysis to make your own contribution.

All LPS B.A. students are required to complete at least one major. This requirement ensures that all graduates of LPS develop a thorough understanding in at least one field of knowledge through concentrated study over several years.

Great care should be taken in choosing a major. Students are strongly advised to seek the help of their academic advisors and of individual faculty members in making this choice.

All the majors offered through the School of Arts and Sciences are available to LPS students. The following URL provides a link to a list of departments and majors:

http://www.sas.upenn.edu/lps/undergraduate/ba/majors_minors

There are two majors (the major in Humanities and the major in the Social Sciences) that are offered exclusively to LPS students. These major requirements can be completed entirely through LPS courses. These majors and their policies are discussed below.

The number of credits (CU) required for graduation is normally determined by adding 20 to the total CU required by the major. The total graduation credit requirement will always be between 32 and 36 CU, so that students in majors larger than 16 CU will be required to take correspondingly fewer than 20 additional courses to graduate.

For a full description of these major programs, students should visit the department’s office or consult its web pages.

LPS Interdisciplinary Majors: Humanities and Social Sciences

Two special interdepartmental evening majors are available to College of Liberal and Professional Studies students: one in Humanities, the other in Social Science.

The courses selected for the Humanities or Social Science major should be chosen with the advice and consent of the major advisor. Students are strongly advised to submit a description of the program of courses involved in writing at the time they declare a major and before any major requirements have been fulfilled. Modifications in the program may be made at a later date if the student’s needs or interests change, but an amendment to the program requires a new statement.

Students must take advanced courses in at least two of the clusters. Independent studies can be challenging to arrange. If students take an independent study, an outline of the topic to be studied must be approved in advance by the instructor supervising the study and by the major advisor, and the LPS advisor must also sign off on the independent
LPS Humanities Major: 34 total CUs

South Asia Studies

1. Where Philosophy is chosen, two course units in Religious Studies may be used as part of the requirement. In selecting courses for the primary Humanities concentration, students should select at least one upper-level course and otherwise be guided by departmental minors where appropriate.

2. The Secondary Concentration Area: 3 CUs
Three course units in one of the areas listed above which was not chosen as the primary concentration area.

3. Other Humanities Courses: 4 CUs
This area includes advanced courses in foreign languages and any of the areas listed but not used in 1 or 2 above.

4. A Seminar or Independent Study Course: 1 CU

TOTAL MAJOR REQUIREMENTS: 14 CUs
LPS Social Sciences Major: 34 total CUs

Major Advisor: Dr. Brian Spooner  spooner@sas.upenn.edu

These requirements are subject to change. Students are advised to consult with Dr. Brian Spooner, the Social Science major advisor, for current requirements.

Introduction to Social Science: 5 core CUs

Anthropology 002

Psychology 001
Sociology (any course numbered from 001-010)

Advanced Concentrations: 9 CUs

Advanced concentrations or “clusters” of three courses each are to be selected from three different departments listed below. These courses are in addition to the introductory courses listed above and are to be at the intermediate level or higher. Students should consult with the major advisor prior to choosing their clusters and courses.

Anthropology (excluding courses in archaeology and physical anthropology)
Communication (social science courses as approved by the major advisor)
Economics
Health and Societies
Political Science
Psychology (even-numbered courses only)
Science, Technology, and Society
Sociology
Urban Studies

Additional eligible courses in thematic programs such as Africana Studies and Gender and Societies must be cross-listed under disciplinary departments such as Sociology and approved by the major advisor.

Two of these three clusters of intermediate level or higher courses must include a seminar. One of these seminar requirements may be fulfilled by an independent study.

TOTAL MAJOR REQUIREMENTS for the B.A.: 14 CUs
Major Departments and Programs

To find out more about major and minor offerings, students should first review information provided on the department websites.

The minimum number of course units required for graduation is always between 32 and 36, and depends on the major. It is usually computed by adding 20 to the number of courses required for the major, except in cases where the number of major requirements exceeds 16 course units.

LPS students with daytime scheduling restrictions should note that not all major requirements are available for study through LPS evening course offerings and may require enrollment in courses scheduled during the day through the College of Arts and Sciences. LPS students should consult the Tuition Reduction Request section of this handbook, and submit forms for qualifying courses if their major requires daytime courses not offered through LPS during an academic cycle. Tuition Reduction Request Forms must be received by the LPS office by the deadlines published in the LPS Academic Calendar.

A minimum of 16 CU of the courses outside the major must be taken in departments within the School of Arts and Sciences.

Students who are completing more than one major must use their largest major to calculate the required graduation credits. For example, a student majoring in English (12 CU) and Fine Arts (16 CU) needs at least 36 CU to graduate.

Credits Needed for Graduation by Major

The number of credits (c.u.) required for graduation is always between 32 and 36, and is usually computed by adding 20 to the number of courses required for the major.

*Some concentrations in this major may require more than this number of CU to complete; in these cases fewer courses outside the major will be required, but the graduation requirement will remain 36 CU.

LPS students with daytime scheduling restrictions should note that not all major requirements are available for study through LPS evening course offerings and may require enrollment in courses scheduled during the day through the College of Arts and Sciences. LPS students should consult the Tuition Reduction Request section of this handbook, and submit forms for qualifying courses if their major requires daytime courses not offered through LPS during an academic cycle. Tuition Reduction Request Forms must be received by the LPS office by the deadlines published in the LPS Academic Calendar.

The numbers above represent minimum credits required; depending on their individual situations, some students may need more than this in order to finish their degree program. Students with questions about their graduation requirements should consult with their advisors.

A minimum of 16 CU of the courses outside the major must be taken in departments within the School of Arts and Sciences.

Students who are completing more than one major must use their largest major to calculate the required graduation credits. For example, a student majoring in English (12 CU) and Fine Arts (16 CU) needs at least 36 CU to graduate.

POLICIES GOVERNING CURRICULUM REQUIREMENTS

Double-counting Required Courses

Double-counting refers to the practice of using one course to satisfy more than one requirement. The course must be one that has been approved for both requirements.
Students should be aware that the policies governing double-counting vary from requirement to requirement (and from department to department, in the case of majors).

Most students may double-count no more than one course toward both the Major and the Sector Requirement.

Students in majors that allow courses from both the Living World and Physical World sectors to fulfill their major requirements are permitted to count both courses toward the Sector Requirement. In this case students are permitted to double-count two courses toward the Major and the Sector Requirement. Majors in which this double-counting is permitted include (but are not limited to) Biological Basis of Behavior, Biology, Biophysics, and the Paleobiology concentration Earth Science.

Students who are double-majoring may count one course from each major toward the Sector Requirement.

There is no limit to the number of courses that may be double-counted between minor and General Education Requirements. The same course cannot be used to fulfill more than one Sector (i.e. the seven Sectors must be fulfilled using seven different courses).

Double-counting courses within the General requirements

Courses may be double-counted toward a Foundational Approach and the Sector Requirement, and between a Foundational Approach and the major but not among two or more Foundational Approaches. This means that the Quantitative Data Analysis, Formal Reasoning and Analysis, Cross-Cultural Analysis, and Cultural Diversity in the U.S., Writing and Language requirements must all be fulfilled using distinct courses.

Double-counting Major Courses and General Requirements

Students may double-count no more than one course between the major and the Sector Requirement. Students with a double major may double-count one course for each major. Biochemistry, Biological Basis of Behavior and Biology majors, as well as Earth Science majors with a concentration in Paleobiology, may double-count as many as two major courses in the Sector Requirement, one each in the Living World and the Physical World sectors.

Students who are double majoring must have 18 unique courses between the two majors. Students who are triple majoring must have 24 unique courses among the three majors. Major departments may have additional rules limiting such double-counting.
In any submatriculation program, a maximum of 4 CU at the graduate level may be included in both the B.A. and the M.A. degrees. Thus, the minimum number of credit units for a submatriculation program is 36. These four courses may be part of the major requirements or the electives of the undergraduate program, but may not include courses in independent study. Some graduate programs may permit fewer than four courses to be double-counted.

For students in the B.A./J.D. submatriculation program, no more than 8 courses in all can be double-counted toward both degrees.

Foundational Approaches

Each of the requirements that make up the Foundational Approaches is satisfied by taking a course or courses from a list of requirement courses. The Foreign Language Requirement may require anywhere from 0 to 4 CU depending on the student's background in the given language; the Writing Requirement requires 2 CU.

With the exception of the Foreign Language Requirement, none of these requirements may be satisfied with Advanced Placement credit (including A-Levels, I.B., and other similar credit based on external examination).

- The same course cannot be used to satisfy more than one Foundational Approach. However, courses taken to satisfy Foundational Approaches may also be used to satisfy the Sector and/or Major Requirement.
- Non-SAS courses approved for the Foundational Approaches are counted as LPS courses in calculating total credits needed for graduation.
- Courses taken to satisfy these requirements must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail, with the exception of the Foreign Languages requirement.

The Writing Requirement (2 CU)

Students must take two LPS Critical Writing Seminars to fulfill the LPS Writing Requirement. Applied Writing and Creative Writing courses do not count towards the Writing Requirement.

The two Critical Writing seminars must include one semester of Introduction to Critical Writing and one section of Introduction to Research Writing, completed in that order. Students may not complete both Critical Writing seminars in the same semester.

It is recommended that students take these courses during their first year of study. Students are also encouraged to continue development of their writing skills by making use of the Marks Writing Center and participating in Penn's writing programs.

- Courses taken to satisfy the Writing Requirement must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail.
- Students must earn a minimum grade of C- in courses taken to fulfill the Writing Requirement.
- Writing seminars may not be used to fulfill any other general requirement.
- LPS students must choose courses designated toward the Writing Requirement that are offered through the LPS division.

In both seminars, assessment is based on the work done throughout the semester, as well as the score received on the final portfolio, which is graded by the instructor and one or more outside readers who are also instructors in the Critical Writing Program.

Introduction to Critical Writing

(Fall & Spring: WRIT 0XX-60X / Summer: WRIT 0XX-90X)

This discipline and topic-based course will focus on the fundamentals of academic and professional writing with the goal of sharpening students’ reasoning and providing them with strategies for its effective expression. Through a series of short formal exercises, revisions, peer reviews, and timed writings, students will practice generating and expressing their own ideas in response to readings, collaborative exercises, and discussions about the course topic. Focus will be on the basics of critical writing: formulating and supporting propositions; reasoning and evidence; explanatory as well as justificatory reasoning. With an emphasis on rhetoric, students will learn how to write and revise for the various audiences they will encounter at Penn and beyond. Attention will also be paid to mechanics, usage, and style, as well as an introduction to citing and documenting sources. All elements of the seminar include guidance from an experienced instructor and feedback from fellow students to provide writers with the challenge of addressing diverse readers. The emphasis throughout is on creative thinking precisely expressed.

Introduction to Research Writing

(Fall & Spring: WRIT 1XX-60X / Summer: WRIT 1XX-90X)

Prerequisite: successful completion of Introduction to Critical Writing

This discipline and topic-based course will build upon the knowledge and skills of writing reasoned discourse that are introduced in the introductory course. Students in the research writing seminar will acquire a substantial knowledge of a specialized topic in the designated discipline as they engage in individual guided research projects organized around the course topic and readings. The course will teach students how to engage in complex synthesis, building upon other’s ideas. A series of short research writing assignments will teach students how to develop keywords, write abstracts, literature overviews, explanations and arguments, as well as give them additional practice in writing clearly and concisely. Throughout students will learn how to formulate and stage a research paper, emulating techniques used by scholars and professionals. Continuing their instruction on rhetorical analysis, students will be introduced to reading and writing like a rhetorician, attending to specific audiences and how these are persuaded, from the word choice to the order, selection, and handling of evidence and documentation. Through a semester-long partnership and hands-on workshop with a library subject specialist, students will be given an introduction, immersion, and guided instruction in how, for example, to conduct stack searches, locate subject-specific databases, and engage in Boolean searches. By the end of the semester, students will be fluent in the basics of library research and writing, and will also have acquired, along the way, a substantial depth of knowledge about their course and research topic. As with Introduction to Critical Writing, emphasis throughout is on creative thinking precisely expressed.

Foreign Language (0 – 4 CU)

Students are strongly encouraged to begin their foreign language requirements early in their studies at Penn. Students with no prior college experience and students transferring into Penn with fewer than eight courses should begin their foreign language requirement no later than their ninth course. Students transferring into Penn with 8-16 courses should begin their foreign language requirement no later than their seventeenth course.

The Foreign Language Requirement may be satisfied in a variety of ways at the discretion of the language department or group concerned:

- By passing an examination administered by the language group. In some instances, students will take the examination after completing 4 CU (or the equivalent) of study.
- By obtaining a minimum grade of C-, after 4 CU of study (or the equivalent) in those languages where satisfaction of the Language Requirement is not based on an examination.
- As a result of achieving the required score on:
  - An Advanced Placement test administered in a foreign language by the Educational Testing Service (ETS).
  - An SAT II foreign language test administered by the ETS.
  - A departmental placement test.
The Cambridge A-level examination (at a grade deemed satisfactory by the language group), or in the case of a bilingual student, a special test given by the appropriate department.

Please note that the determination of competency will vary from department to department and even from language group to language group within a department.

Other policies on the Foreign Language Requirement are listed below:

- Foreign Language Requirement courses may not be used to fulfill any other LPS requirement.
- Pre-College credit, transfer credit, credit away and credit earned studying abroad may be counted toward the Foreign Language Requirement only when departments award credit using the number of a Penn course approved for the Foreign Language Requirement.
- Credit away and credit earned studying abroad may be counted toward the Foreign Language Requirement only when departments assign a course number equivalent to the number of a Penn course approved for the Foreign Language Requirement.
- LPS students may take their language courses on a pass/fail basis, although we recommend that students take courses for a letter grade where possible.

Students may petition the LPS Executive Committee for an exemption from the foreign language requirement. In considering such a petition the Committee requires documentary evidence of a learning disability, especially a case history of problems encountered in good faith efforts at language learning. Students must make an appointment with the Director of the BA and BFA Program as the initial step in petitioning the LPS Executive Committee. Any student who receives an exemption from the foreign language requirement will be expected to satisfy an alternative requirement as determined by the LPS Executive Committee. Students should be aware that the LPS Executive Committee meets only twice a year—in April and December.

Language Requirement Substitution

Students who believe that they have a documented disability that precludes learning a foreign language should contact the Student Disabilities Services Office (SDS). A member of their professional staff will explain the assessment procedure, which requires up-to-date neuropsychological testing.

If a student’s disability is verified by SDS and course substitution is approved, the student should meet with their LPS Advisor to select appropriate substitute courses. The number of courses each student will require will depend upon the number of foreign language classes he or she has completed before applying for the substitution. A full substitution will require four substitute courses. If a student has completed one or more Penn language classes, which is the norm, the remaining courses, up to the number of four will be selected as follows: Each student will choose one geographical area in the world, where English is not the primary language, and will take at least one course in literature in translation from that country or region and one class in linguistics or anthropology of language. The remaining courses will focus on the culture or literature of that same geographical area. All classes for the language substitution must be pre-approved by the LPS Advisor before the start of classes.

Quantitative Data Analysis (1 CU)

Please see the QDAR web site,

For a complete list of QDAR courses. Students are strongly advised to consult with the LPS advisor before enrolling in a course for the purpose of satisfying the QDAR.

- In most cases, the Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement can only be satisfied by courses taken at Penn.
- Courses taken to satisfy the Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail.
- Students must earn a minimum grade of C- in courses taken to fulfill the Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement.
- A course used to satisfy the Quantitative Data Analysis Requirement may be double-counted toward other requirements in the General Education Curriculum (except for the Writing and Foreign Language Requirements) as well as toward the Major.

Formal Reasoning and Analysis (1 CU)

- Students fulfill the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement by taking a course from the list of approved courses at http://fission.sas.upenn.edu/col/genreq/
- Courses taken to satisfy the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail. Any passing grade, from A+ through D, is acceptable in order for a course to fulfill the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement.
- A course used to satisfy the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement may be double-counted toward other requirements in the General Education Curriculum (except for the Writing and Foreign Language Requirements) as well as toward the Major.
- Pre-College credit, transfer credit, credit away and credit earned studying abroad may be counted toward the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement only when departments award credit using the number of a Penn course approved for the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement.

- Students who receive AP credit in Calculus (BC) and who take any Arts and Sciences course that has calculus as a prerequisite or co-requisite may use that course to fulfill the Formal Reasoning and Analysis Requirement.

Cross-Cultural Analysis (1 CU)

Students fulfill the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement by taking a course from the list of approved courses.

Courses taken to satisfy the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail. Any passing grade, from A+ through D, is acceptable in order for a course to fulfill the Cross-Cultural Analysis Requirement.

- A course used to satisfy the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement may not be double-counted toward the Cultural Diversity in the U.S., Writing or Foreign Language Requirements. A few courses are approved for both the Cross Cultural Analysis and the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirements, in which case a student may count it toward either requirement but will still have to take a second course to fulfill the other one. However, a course fulfilling the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement may be doubled counted toward any other General Education requirement as well as a major or minor.
- Pre-College credit, transfer credit, credit away and credit earned studying abroad may be counted toward the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement.
- Advanced Placement credit may not be used to fulfill the Cross Cultural Analysis Requirement.

Cultural Diversity in the U.S. (1 CU)

(Requirement of students who began at Penn in 2008 or later only)

Students fulfill the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement by taking a course from the list of approved courses.

- Courses taken to satisfy the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail. Any passing grade, from A+ through D, is acceptable in order for a course to fulfill the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement.
- A course used to satisfy the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement may not be double-counted toward the Cross Cultural Analysis, Writing or Foreign Language Requirements. However, a course fulfilling this requirement may be doubled counted toward any other General Education requirement as well as a major or minor.

- Pre-College credit, transfer credit, credit away and credit earned studying abroad may be counted toward the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement. A few courses are approved for both the Cross Cultural Analysis and the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirements, in which case a student may count it toward either requirement but will still have to take a second course to fulfill the other one.
- Advanced Placement credit may not be used to fulfill the Cultural Diversity in the U.S. Requirement.

Sector Requirements (7 CU total : 1 CU each)

To satisfy the Sector Requirement, students must take one course in each of the sectors. Sector VII may be satisfied by taking one course from the Sector VII list or an additional Living World or Physical World course.

Important note: Courses designated in the Course Timetable and the Course Register as “Distributions” may not be used to satisfy the Sector Requirement.

- The Sector Requirement may not be satisfied with Advanced Placement credit (including A-Levels, IB, and other similar credit based on external examination).
- Non-LPS or College courses approved for the Sector Requirement are considered equivalent to LPS Electives.
- Courses taken to satisfy the Sector Requirement must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail.
- Students may double-count no more than one course between the Major and the Sector Requirement. Exceptions to this rule include the following:
  - Biochemistry, Biological Basis of Behavior, and Biology majors, as well as Geology majors with a concentration in Paleobiology, may double-count two courses between the Major and the Sector Requirement: one each in the Living World and Physical World sectors.
  - Students who are double majoring may double-count two courses between the Majors and the Sector Requirement, one from each major. There is no limit to the number of courses that may be double-counted between minor and General Education Requirements.
  - Students who receive Advanced Placement credit for a Living World or Physical World course (Physics B or C, Chemistry, Biology, Environmental Science or Psychology) and who take an additional course at Penn in that subject, may use the additional course to fulfill the relevant sector. In Psychology, the additional course must have an odd number.
  - Credit away and credit earned studying abroad may be counted toward the Sector Requirement only when departments assign a course number equivalent to the number of a Penn course approved for the Sector Requirement.

- Transfer students can apply for transfer credit evaluation online. If a course is given a number equivalent to a requirement course here, then that course will fulfill that requirement (with the exception of the Writing and Quantitative Data Analysis Requirements).

- With the exception of the Language Requirement, none of these requirements may be satisfied with Advanced Placement credit (including A-Levels, IB, and other similar credit based on external examination).

- Courses taken to satisfy LPS Requirements (with the exception of the Foreign Language Requirement) must be taken for a letter grade, not pass/fail.

Free Electives

In some cases, a student may be eligible to take a limited number of free electives on a Pass/Fail grading basis. Students must consult with an academic advisor to verify eligibility before enrolling for P/F grade type status. The number of free electives a student must complete will vary based the number of times a student has double-counted courses and has placed out of lower level core requirements. Once a student has satisfied all Foundational, Sector, and Major Requirements, if they have not yet met the minimum number of course units required in their degree curriculum, they would need to complete free electives until meeting that number.

Declaration of Major

Declaration of Major: Students must be admitted to the B.A. program before formally seeking admission to a major program. Although students may declare a major with only eight courses remaining towards the degree, they are strongly advised to do so prior to that time but after having completed several courses in their desired field of concentration.

Policies for Declaring a Major: Application to a major must be made while students still have at least eight CUs remaining toward the degree.

- Students should carefully read the description of the major program in which they are interested. Printed descriptions of the major are available from the department or program office or from the program’s web site.
- The minimum qualification for acceptance into a major program is a grade point average of 2.0 in those major and major-related courses that a student has already taken. Some departments or programs require a higher G.P.A., and some require that specific prerequisite courses be completed before acceptance into the major.
• The specific rules that govern each major are those that are in effect at the time the student is accepted into the major. Only the department or program in question can make exceptions to the regulations governing a major program.
• All courses taken for a major must be taken for a letter grade (i.e., they cannot be taken pass/fail).
• Only the department or program advisors determine which credits transferred from another institution may count toward the major at Penn.

Procedure for Declaring a Major

• Create an on-line Academic Planning Worksheet through Penn InTouch and add the intended major.
• Meet with the LPS advisor to discuss your plans and review your worksheet.
• Print out your worksheet in case your major department would like the hard copy.
• Schedule a meeting with the undergraduate chair or designee of your prospective major(s).
• After an initial discussion with the undergraduate chair, you may need to meet with a particular faculty member who will become your major advisor. This advisor will assist you in formulating the major, identifying research opportunities in the major, and discussing fellowship and post-graduate opportunities in this academic field. You should still speak with the LPS advisor periodically to discuss your overall progress toward the degree as well as special academic options and programs.
• Take the worksheet and any other paperwork required by the department to the administrative assistant of the department who will enter the necessary information in the Student Records System (SRS).

COURSE SELECTION AND REGISTRATION TOOLS

Course Selection

Students should consider carefully the amount of time they have for study and preparation of assignments before registering for courses in order to avoid registering for more course work than they are able to complete. Students without prior college experience, or those who have been away from academic work for some time, should consult with the LPS advisor to plan their academic program. Students should consult the degree requirements sections of this manual for assistance in course selection, and seek out advising as needed.
Please note that three different sets of curriculum requirements are currently active at SAS/LPS; an LPS student’s curriculum is assigned based on the semester in which he or she began his or her first term of study. Students should seek clarification from the LPS advisor to make certain the courses they intend to use toward their degree are designated for their particular curriculum requirements.

All undergraduate areas of the arts and sciences are open to admitted students. Students may take day or evening courses at their discretion, with the understanding that there is a significant difference in tuition. LPS allows students to enroll in a limited number of courses at other Penn schools, with the understanding that registration rules in those courses are at the sole discretion of, and governed by, the schools offering those courses. While some restrictions may apply, many schools allow enrollment on a space-available basis. Many courses list prerequisites in their course descriptions. Students should consult the department or instructor if they have a question about fulfilling those prerequisites. Transfer credit may also fulfill a prerequisite.

LPS Undergraduate Courses

LPS offers evening courses in many areas of the arts and sciences. A complete listing of LPS courses with times and descriptions is published on the LPS website, and made available in March for the following Fall and Summer terms, and in early November for the Spring term. LPS course listings can also be found in the Penn InTouch course search function by choosing “College of Liberal and Professional Studies” in the program drop-down menu in the search options. LPS course numbers can also be identified by their section number (the second group of three numbers) For example, in a full course number such as SOCI 001-601, the first set of numbers provides the course or topic content number, while the second set of three numbers (-601) indicates which school or division at Penn the course belongs to, which also drives the price of tuition. LPS undergraduate section numbers can be identified as follows:

- LPS Fall: 601 through 609
- LPS Spring: 601 through 609
- LPS Summer: 900 through 909

If a course section number is other than those listed above, it may be owned by another division, or may be an LPS alternative format course; in both cases they may be billed at a tuition rate that differs from the LPS rate. Students are strongly urged to check tuition tables or call LPS Student Services and Records at 215-756-7040 to seek clarification on the cost of graduate courses and/or courses outside of LPS.
Registration

http://www.college.upenn.edu/registration-tutorial

Registration at Penn occurs at two distinct times: Advance Registration and the Course Selection Period. Each period functions differently. For details and tips on course selection and using Penn InTouch, see the video tutorial at the link provided.

Advance Registration

Students request courses for the upcoming semester during the Advance Registration period. During Advance Registration, students submit their preferred courses, as well as alternate courses, using Penn InTouch, the on-line registration system. Students can submit their requested courses at any time during this period. All course requests are processed at the conclusion of the Advance Registration period, regardless of when the request was submitted. There is no advantage to registering early during this period, and no guarantee that students will be enrolled in all their requested courses.

It is very important to take part in Advance Registration. Students who do not advance register may find themselves closed out of the courses they wish to take.

Course Selection Period

The Course Selection Period begins a few weeks after Advance Registration and extends into the semester. During this period, students can make immediate changes to their course roster. The Course Selection Period allows students to visit classes before finalizing their schedules, but students are expected to attend all classes they may wish to add in order to keep up with assignments and material. Even during this period, instructors may choose to grant admission only to students who have been attending regularly. Unlike Advance Registration, during the Course Selection Period courses are filled as students register for them, so timing is important and students know immediately if they are enrolled.

Penn InTouch

http://medley.isc-seo.upenn.edu/penn_portal/view.php

Penn InTouch can be found through the Penn Portal. It is the on-line information system for Penn students; it can be accessed through the tab on the Penn Portal. This is the most comprehensive, user-friendly and detailed option of all course listing resources. Students can search for courses, map out possible scheduling configurations, and register through the Registration and Planning tool in Penn InTouch. Search criteria include term, subject, instructor, status, program, requirement, open and closed status, day and time. It provides the full course description, prerequisites and co-requisites if applicable, a syllabus if posted, the Foundational or Sector requirement for which the course might count, room number, and the mapped street address, name and image of the building in which the course is offered. Courses offered through LPS may be located by selecting LPS under the Division drop-down menu in Search Options. Penn InTouch includes, but is not limited to, the following registration tools:

Academic Planning Worksheet

One of the many features available through Penn InTouch is the planning worksheet that helps students track their progress toward completion of degree requirements. New students should explore this tool with the assistance of their advisor after registering for courses. It is important to note that the worksheet is not the final certification for requirement satisfaction, major certification or graduation.

To create an academic planning worksheet, students should:

- Log in to Penn InTouch
- Select WORKSHEET from the menu.
- Click on NEW WORKSHEET
- Select COLLEGE OF LIBERAL AND PROFESSIONAL STUDIES – B.A. from the desired division menu
- Choose the appropriate set of curriculum requirements, based on those requirements in place at the time you matriculated at Penn. Seek assistance from an advisor for clarification.
- Select CONFIRM
- Select OPEN from the drop-down menu to view
- Students may also add major and/or minor templates to the worksheet

Course Search / Mock Schedule Tool

The Course Search and Mock Schedule tools in Penn InTouch provide students with the ability to search through courses being offered for an upcoming term and to view them on a mock planning schedule.

Course Search

- To get started, enter criteria for a search into the form and click the FIND COURSES button.
- Use advanced search for more options.
- View search results by clicking on a Course ID.
- Save a list of courses to your Course Cart.
Course Details

- View details for a course, including description, instructors, credit and cross-listed sections.
- Click on a department name for the departmental webpage.
- Click on a building code for classroom locations (once room scheduling information is available, usually 2-3 weeks before each term begins)
- View important information, restrictions and required permits.
- Associated co-requisite courses/activities display at the bottom, such as lectures, recitations and labs.

Mock Schedule

- Select courses to use for planning and click UPDATE SCHEDULE to view a mock schedule.
- Time conflicts are highlighted with red text (You may want to leave some on your list to submit as “alternate” requests during advanced registration.
- Courses with required associated activities are noted with “!”; click on Course ID for more information.
- Print a copy of this page to reference when you submit your registration to Penn InTouch.

Other Online Resources for Course Selection

LPS Course Guide: This resource is available on the LPS website. Courses rostered by LPS may also be located through the Penn In Touch Course Search tool by selecting LPS under the Division drop-down menu in Search Options.

Links to all the resources that follow are available from the University Registrar website:

Course Timetable: This resource is updated every semester before the start of Advance Registration. It lists those courses that will be offered during the upcoming semester.

Course and Room Roster: This publication is available online before the start of classes each semester, and is an updated version of the Course Timetable. It lists courses to be offered in the upcoming semester including their room assignments.

Course Register: This is a listing of all courses offered by the University. Please note that these are not specific to any given semester.

Penn Course Review: This is a student-run publication that lists the numerical ratings and general comments for all undergraduate courses taught in an academic year at Penn.
POLICIES GOVERNING REGISTRATION

Adding a Course

All students must be registered officially in order to take a course for credit or to audit a course.

Students may add a new course via Penn InTouch through approximately the second week of the term, except for foreign language courses and writing courses, which may only be added through the first week. Students should consult the current LPS Academic Calendar for term-specific deadlines.

Students on an academic, financial, or disciplinary hold must have their hold cleared and must register officially by the end of the add period in order to take a course for credit or to audit a course.

Dropping a Course

Students may drop a course with no financial obligation until the published deadline in the current LPS Academic Calendar (approximately two weeks into the term). Students should consult the LPS Academic Calendar on the LPS website for term-specific deadlines. Students can officially drop a course through Penn In Touch until the Drop deadline.

Absence from class does not constitute a drop, nor does notifying the instructor or another university office. Students who fail to drop a course officially within published deadlines may receive a grade of F and are financially responsible for the tuition.

Verification of Registration Changes

When making registration changes via Penn InTouch, prior to logging out students are responsible for verifying their schedule to make sure changes have taken effect.

Late Drop

Students may also drop a course between the second and fourth weeks of the term, but in so doing they will incur a 50 percent financial obligation for the tuition and fee for the dropped course.

During this period, students must go to the LPS website to print a Late Drop form. The form, found at www.sas.upenn.edu/lps/resources/, must be signed by the professor and submitted to the LPS office by the end of the business day on the last day of Late Drop as published in the LPS Academic Calendar. Students should consult the current LPS Academic Calendar website for term-specific deadlines. No exceptions can be made to this deadline.

Withdrawing from a Course

Students wanting to discontinue a course after the late drop period has ended may withdraw from the course until the published withdrawal period deadline. Students should consult the LPS Academic Calendar on the LPS website for term-specific deadlines.

To withdraw, students must go to the LPS website to print a Withdrawal Form (found at www.sas.upenn.edu/lps/resources/). Students must complete the form, have it signed by the professor, and submit it to LPS by the end of the business day on the last day of the Withdrawal deadline as published in the LPS Academic Calendar. No exceptions can be made to this deadline.

Withdrawals may affect students’ academic standing or financial aid standing. Students are encouraged to consult the LPS advisor to discuss their withdrawal and overall academic progress. Students are responsible for investigating how a drop may affect their eligibility with any other offices outside of LPS. International students must consult with International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS). Students living on campus must consult with the Office of Student Housing. Any students receiving aid should contact Student Financial Services to discuss the impact of a withdrawal on their financial aid. Students who withdraw from a course have full financial obligation.

Auditing a Course

Auditors receive neither grades nor credit but can receive a transcript. Auditors are responsible for the full tuition which is determined by and varies among the different schools and divisions offering courses at Penn. Most courses (except for Romance Languages) are open to auditors on a space-available basis. No application is required; a registration form is available at www.sas.upenn.edu/lps/auditor.

There is also an extensive program of auditing offered by Penn for retired senior citizens called the Senior Auditors Program. The Senior Auditor web address is www.sas.upenn.edu/lps/senior/.
Changing Grade Type or Credit Status in a Course

Students may change their status in a course from credit to audit, from a letter grade to Pass/Fail or from Pass/Fail to a letter grade until the deadline published in the LPS Academic Calendar (approximately four weeks into the term) available on the LPS website. No change is permissible after the published deadline. Students should check with their LPS advisor prior to changing grade or credit status on a course to determine the impact of making such a change.

Permits and Authorizations

Under certain circumstances special permission may be required to register for a course. Instructors or departments may enter such permits into the system, enabling the student to register for that course through Penn InTouch. If the student does not claim a permit (by adding the course through Penn InTouch), they will be dropped from the list and will have to start over. If a course in which you are interested requires a permit, contact the department offering the course.

Registration Holds

A registration hold may be placed on a student's record that will prevent the student from registering until action has been taken to resolve the issue. If students are unable to register using Penn InTouch, it is their responsibility to contact the LPS Advisor or other relevant office promptly to determine the cause of the problem and resolve it in a timely manner. Students may see what registration holds, if any, have been placed on their account by reading the messages on the front page of Penn InTouch.

Any of the following circumstances may prevent a student from accessing Penn InTouch and registering for courses:

- A student who was admitted provisionally may be required to speak with their general advisor regarding the terms of their admission and the criteria required for full admission to the program.
- A student on academic probation may be required to speak with a general advisor to discuss the implications of their academic standing.
- A student who has registered through the auditor program.
- A student who has an unpaid bursar bill should contact Student Financial Services directly.
- A student has not submitted up-to-date insurance and immunization records to Student Health.
- Admissions Hold: Admitted student must submit official transcripts; contact LPS Admissions.
- Collections/Financial Hold: contact Student Financial Services.
• Departmental Hold: Some departments require majors to meet with a major advisor at points throughout their academic careers. The hold is removed by the department after the student has met with his or her major advisor.
• Judicial Hold: A judicial hold is the result of some judicial action or inquiry concerning the student. The student will be barred from registering until the hold is cleared and should contact the Office of Student Conduct for more information.

TUITION, FEES AND BILLING

Tuition

Tuition is the cost of instruction. LPS undergraduate courses, College courses, and graduate courses each carry different tuition rates. The current tuition rates for LPS courses can be found on the LPS website at www.sas.upenn.edu/lps/tuition/.

Tuition rates for undergraduate College courses and graduate courses may be obtained from the Student Financial Services office, Room 100, Franklin Building, 3451 Walnut Street, 215-898-1988, or the LPS office. LPS students may submit billing questions to lps@sas.upenn.edu.

Paper bills will be mailed only to incoming freshman and transfer students in July and August. Thereafter, all bills will be sent electronically through Penn.Pay.

LPS B.A. degree candidates who take courses in the College must normally pay College rates for tuition and general fee. Students enrolled in College courses that qualify and have been approved by LPS for tuition reduction may have the tuition of those courses reduced to LPS rates. Students must consult the Tuition Reduction Request section of this manual, consult with the LPS advisor, and submit forms by the published deadline.

General Fee

The general fee enables the University to maintain such essential facilities as the library system, museums, institutes, and special laboratories. It also provides for non-academic services such as the Career Planning and Placement Office. General fees vary and are determined by the school or division offering the course.

Technology Fee

The technology fee covers all the public computing labs, networking access and a host of other computing services and local support. For an overview of Penn's technology services, refer to: http://www.upenn.edu/computing/home/menu/facilities.html.
Recreation Fee

Full-time LPS students (enrolled in 4 or more course units) are charged a Recreation Fee each semester, which includes membership to the Pottruck Center and the University fitness center. The basketball and squash courts and pool in Hutchinson Gymnasium are available to those who have a valid PennCard but do not hold a Pottruck membership.

Clinical Fee

The clinical fee is required for full-time LPS students enrolled in 4 or more CUs and allows them unlimited access to the Penn Student Health Service. The fee is charged each semester that a student is enrolled in 4 or more CUs.

Special Course Fees

Some non-credit courses may be offered at special fees. Online courses may also incur additional fees. Students should consult LPS Student Services at 215-746-7040 for details.

Payment Process and Billing Schedule

Consult the Billing Schedule for the current academic year on the Student Financial Services website at: http://www.sfs.upenn.edu/billing/billing-schedule.htm

Paper bills will be mailed only to incoming freshman and transfer students in July and August 2012. Thereafter, all bills will be sent electronically through Penn.Pay.

Receiving Your Bill

www.sfs.upenn.edu

Penn.Pay is Penn’s electronic billing system for student accounts. Penn.Pay enables the student, and other payers you authorize, to receive your Penn student account billing statement online. The bill includes charges for tuition, fees, room, board, and other expenses from a variety of Penn offices. New students must complete the Student Financial Services “MUST DO LIST” at http://www.sfs.upenn.edu/mustdo/index.htm.

Paying Your Bill

Penn encourages students to make payments online using PennPay. Student can also mail a check, pay in person at the Franklin Building Lobby, or wire payment. Payment is also accepted online with an American Express® Card. (A 2.0% convenience fee will be assessed on your American Express® statement. Penn does not receive any portion of the convenience fee.)
All tuition and fees are payable by the date indicated on the bill and the full amount of the payment is due. Students who have not received a bill within six weeks after registration should contact Student Financial Services.

Details about Paying Your Bill and Payment Options, including the Penn Monthly Budget Plan, can be found in the ‘Billing and Payment’ section of the Student Financial Services website: http://www.sfs.upenn.edu/billing/index.htm.

Late Payment

Penn must receive the amount due in full on, or before, the due date. If full payment is not received by this date, a late payment penalty of 1.5% of the past due amount per month will be assessed, and future registration and continuing enrollment will be jeopardized.

Financial Aid Credits on Your Bill

Financial aid credits will not appear on the bill until after the drop/add period. This is contingent upon the following: tuition has been posted to your account, you have received your financial aid award, you have signed and submitted loan notes, and you have completed other required documentation from SFS.

Tuition Reduction Adjustments on Your Bill

Approved Tuition Reduction Request adjustments will be processed after the term-specific drop/add period. Students will be notified via e-mail once the adjustments have been made.

Penn Faculty/Staff Tuition Benefits

LPS and SFS do not administer tuition benefits for Penn employees, and will not be able to provide eligibility information. To determine eligibility, options and obligations that may pertain to your employment status, and to activate payment of tuition benefits, students must contact their Human Resources benefits office directly.

Penn employees should note that eligibility for tuition benefits does not imply eligibility for admission to LPS; application and acceptance to a program of study is required in order to register for courses. Once accepted into a program of study, Penn employees using tuition benefits are afforded options and subject to academic and financial obligations identical to those of all LPS students.

All students are responsible for understanding the policies of their tuition benefits, knowing and abiding by all LPS Academic Calendar deadlines, and for grades and bills incurred through registration in any course regardless of attendance, completion, or employee status.
University System

www.hr.upenn.edu/tuition/

Eligible employees of the University may request tuition benefits, view current and past requests for payment, and view pending payments by using the online tuition management system on the Human Resources website at the above link. Payments are not automatically made, or continued for future terms based upon registration; the employee must apply online for tuition benefits each term.

Health System

Eligible employees of the University of Pennsylvania Health System should consult with their supervisor to determine benefits eligibility, policy and procedures.

Tuition Refund Policy

Please see the LPS Academic Calendar (which may differ from the SAS calendar) for dates pertaining to each academic term.

Under the following circumstances, all or part of tuition will be refunded:

1. Dropped Courses: Semester-specific academic calendar deadlines are published on the LPS website Calendar as well within this handbook. If a student drops a course by the LPS drop period deadline (typically within the first two weeks of the start of the semester), there is no financial obligation; full tuition, general fee, technology fee, and associated lab fees (if applicable) will be refunded by credit to the student’s University account. A student must drop the course(s) through Penn inTouch until the drop deadline.

   Although students are permitted to drop without academic penalty between the ends of the second and fifth weeks of the term, only 50% of tuition, general fee, and technology fee will be refunded; associated lab fees (if any) will remain in full. If a student withdraws from a course after the fifth week of classes, a grade of W is recorded on the transcript, and the student is responsible for the entire tuition and associated fees for the course. A student who has not yet paid at the point of withdrawal will nevertheless remain indebted to the University until the tuition is paid.

Please see the LPS Academic Calendar for term-specific drop dates.
2. Illness: A student who withdraws because of an acute illness may petition the LPS Petition Review Committee to request a partial refund of tuition. A petition, together with a doctor’s letter, must be submitted. The physician’s letter must state that the student has been disabled by illness or injury arising after the beginning of classes and is unable to continue class work.

3. Canceled Courses: The University reserves the right to cancel or change any course. If a College of Liberal and Professional Studies course is cancelled or rescheduled at a time during which the student is unable to attend, all tuition and fee charges will be refunded.

LPS ACADEMIC STANDING POLICIES

Academic Integrity

The fundamental purpose of the University as an academic community is the pursuit of knowledge. Essential to the success of this educational mission is a commitment to the principles of academic integrity. Academic work represents not only what we have learned about a subject but also how we have learned it. Values and beliefs about academic integrity have been adopted by scholars so that others may trace our honorable footsteps, verify what we have learned, and build upon our work. Every member of the University community is responsible for upholding the highest standards of honesty at all times.

As members of the University community, students are also responsible for adhering to the principles and spirit of the Code of Academic Integrity. Penn believes strongly in the importance of academic integrity. Students who violate its precepts are subject to punishment through the judicial system. Ignorance of the rules is no excuse. If a student is unsure whether his or her action(s) constitute a violation of the Code of Academic Integrity, it is that student’s responsibility to consult with the instructor to clarify any ambiguity.

The best strategy for maintaining academic integrity is to avoid situations where academic dishonesty might occur.

- When in doubt, cite. There are many publications, such as the Chicago Manual of Style or the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers (which has been placed in Rosengarten Reserve by the Honor Council), that provide information about methods of proper citation. Failure to acknowledge sources is plagiarism, regardless of intention. The Penn Online Research Tutorial also has a section on proper citation of sources: http://gethelp.library.upenn.edu/PORT
- Consult with instructors about assignments.
- Plan ahead to leave sufficient time to complete work.
Holidays

The University observes the following holidays: Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and the day after, and New Year’s Day.

The University also recognizes that there are several religious holidays that affect large numbers of University community members, including Christmas, Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, the first two days of Passover and Good Friday. In consideration of their significance for many students, no examinations may be given and no assigned work may be required on these days. Students who observe these holidays will be given an opportunity to make up missed work in both laboratories and lecture courses. If an examination is given on the first class day after one of these holidays, it must not cover material introduced in class on that holiday.

Class Attendance

Some professors and departments are very strict about class attendance; others do not consider it part of the grading system. If the instructor determines a student has an excessive number of absences, the student’s final grade may be lowered. Some departments, the foreign languages in particular, have very precise rules for attendance.

If a student must miss five days or less of class at any point during the semester, he or she should notify the instructor as soon as possible using the Course Absence Report system.

If a student misses or anticipates missing more than five days of classes, she or he must contact the LPS Advisor as soon as possible.

Students should check Penn InTouch before the end of the Course Selection period and before the end of the Drop period each semester to verify their roster. Failure to attend a class for which one is registered does not result in being automatically dropped from the class.

Course Absence Report System (CAR)

Course Absence Reports (CAR) replaces earlier instructor notifications provided by the advisor. LPS will no longer collect documentation or provide instructor notification for absences of five days or less. If a student misses or anticipates missing more than five days of classes, she or he should contact the LPS Advisor as soon as possible.

Course Absence Reports are designed to provide a way for students to communicate with their instructors when medical issues, family emergencies, or other concerns necessitate missing class.

Students can log in to the CAR system from Penn InTouch and send a report to one or more instructors, indicating the number of days missed (up to a maximum of five days) and the general reason for the absence.

Instructors may opt to receive these notices by email, to view a digest of all submitted reports, or not to use the system at all. Each instructor will have a policy on class attendance (and on whether Course Absence Reports are required for their course) that will be communicated to students. Students who submit Course Absence Reports are still responsible for following up with the instructor about any missed work. Course Absence Reports do not constitute “excuses.”

Frequently Asked Questions about CAR

Why was the Course Absence Report created?

The purpose of the Course Absence Report (CAR) system is to facilitate communication between instructors and students when a student misses class. The system allows students to inform instructors about absences and makes it easier for instructors to manage information about absences in a course. Each course should have a clear policy for absences. In addition, the CAR system allows school advising offices to coordinate support for students who miss class.

What is the Course Absence Report System?

Course Absence Reports are tools to be used in the context of a course’s policy and process for managing absences up to five (5) days. For absences longer than five days, students should contact their school’s advising office. The system allows a student to notify instructors of an absence and to keep a record of the number of absences for each course. The CAR system allows a student to send notices through one, easily managed system that includes the reason for the absence.

Why should a student submit a Course Absence Report?

Students sometimes find themselves in circumstances that cause them to miss class meetings. Using the CAR system to notify instructors of any absences can help a student manage her or his performance in that class, and it also enables the student's school advising office to offer help when it is needed.

Why should an instructor use the Course Absence Report system?

Many Penn students are confused by the transition from high school where their absences were often “excused” due to medical or family reasons. The Course Absence Report system is meant to help foster a culture where students take responsibility for attending class and meeting their academic obligations. When students are unable to do so, they should expect to communicate with their instructors.

Instructors should clearly communicate their expectations regarding class attendance and how or whether students are expected to use the CAR system. The CAR system also facilitates tracking absences for an individual student, tracking absences in a course over a term, and identifying students who may be having difficulty in a course through one, easily managed system that includes both an email record and a record in Courses InTouch.

If no documentation is provided, how will an instructor determine whether the reason for the absence is legitimate?

Students are explicitly informed at the time they submit a Course Absence Report that their use of this system is governed by Penn's Code of Academic Integrity. Students who submit false information through the CAR system may be charged by the Office of Student Conduct with a violation of this Code. The CAR system emphasizes the personal responsibility of the student - in reporting absences honestly, in making up missed work when possible, and in seeking appropriate help when absences cause problems academically. Please see the Code of Academic Integrity.

Why are students not able to write comments in CAR?

A Course Absence Report is meant to be the starting point of a discussion. If more detailed information needs to be provided, the student should speak directly with the instructor.

How should instructors handle the documentation of absences?

Each course should have a syllabus with a clearly stated policy on attendance. If a student is absent for longer than five days, the instructor should work with the student's school advising office to determine what support the student needs and/or what documentation should be provided to the school advising office. Documentation verifying illness or other reasons for missing class is not provided through the Course Absence Report system. Health information is considered private. Instructors should not request documentation verifying illness directly from students.

How do Course Absence Reports work for MIDTERM exams?

Each course should have a clear policy and process when students miss a midterm exam. Some instructors may wish to use Course Absence Reports as a tool for managing missed midterm exams. Students should contact the instructor of a class if the policy and process for missing a midterm exam is unclear or unknown.

How do Course Absence Reports work for FINAL exams?

Course Absence Reports do not work during Final Exams. Students should contact the instructor immediately if they anticipate missing a final exam.

Who has access to the Course Absence Reports?

61
The only people who receive information about a Course Absence Report are the student submitting a report, instructors for those courses included in the report, and authorized administrators in the student’s school advising office.

Final Examinations

http://www.college.upenn.edu/final-exam-policy

- No instructor may hold a final examination nor require the submission of a take-home final exam except during the period in which final examinations are scheduled; when necessary, exceptions to this policy may be granted for postponed examinations.
- No final examinations may be scheduled during the last week of classes or on reading days.
- No student may be required to take more than two final examinations on any calendar day during the period in which final examinations are scheduled. If more than two are scheduled, the student may postpone the middle exam. If a take-home final exam is due on a day when two final examinations are scheduled, the take-home exam shall be postponed by one day.
- Examinations that are postponed because of conflicts with other examinations, or because more than two examinations are scheduled in the same day, may be taken at another time during the final examinations period if the faculty member and student can agree on that time. Otherwise, they must be taken during the official period for postponed examinations.
- Examinations that are postponed because of illness, a death in the family, for religious observance or some other unusual event, may be taken only during the official periods: the first week of the spring and fall semesters. Students who have such an issue should contact the LPS Advisor or Program Director immediately.
- No classes or required class activities may be held during the reading period.
- Final exams for College of Liberal and Professional Studies (LPS) courses must be given on the regular class meeting night during the week of final examinations. No change in scheduling is permitted without unanimous consent of all students in the class and the Executive Director of LPS. An LPS final exam may not be administered during the last week of class or on a reading day.

In addition, the Provost’s statement on “Rules Governing Final Examinations,” found at the link provided below, applies to all LPS students:

Rules Governing Final Examinations

1. No instructor may hold a final examination nor require the submission of a take-home final exam except during the period in which final examinations are scheduled; when necessary, exceptions to this policy may be granted for postponed examinations (see 3 and 4 below). No final examinations may be scheduled during the last week of classes or on reading days.

2. No student may be required to take more than two final examinations on any calendar day during the period in which final examinations are scheduled. If more than two are scheduled, the student may postpone the middle exam. If a take-home final exam is due on a day when two final examinations are scheduled, the take-home exam shall be postponed by one day.

3. Examinations that are postponed because of conflicts with other examinations, or because more than two examinations are scheduled in the same day, may be taken at another time during the final examinations period if the faculty member and student can agree on that time. Otherwise, they must be taken during the official period for postponed examinations.

4. Examinations that are postponed because of illness, a death in the family, for religious observance or some other unusual event, may be taken only during the official periods: the first week of the spring and fall semesters. Students must obtain permission from their Dean’s office to take a postponed exam. Instructors in all courses must be willing to offer a make-up examination to all students who are excused from the final examination.

5. No instructor may change the time or date of a final exam without permission from the appropriate dean.

6. No instructor may increase the time allowed for a final exam beyond the scheduled two hours without permission from the appropriate dean.

7. No classes or required class activities may be held during the reading period.

8. The first examination of the day begins at 9 a.m. and the last examination concludes by 8 p.m. There will be one hour between exam time blocks.

9. All students must be allowed to see their final examination. Exams should be available as soon as possible after being graded with access ensured for a period of at least one regular semester after the exam has been given. To help protect student privacy, a student should have access only to his or her own exam and not the exams of other students. Therefore, for example, it is not permissible to leave student exams (or grades or papers) in publicly accessible areas.

10. Students may not be asked for their Social Security Numbers. Instructors may not publicly display a student’s Penn ID or any portion of the Social Security Number, nor use name, initials, or any personally identifiable information to post grades. Even when an identifier is masked or absent, grades may not be posted in alphabetical order, to protect student privacy.
11. Final exams for the College of Liberal and Professional Studies (LPS) courses must be given on the regular class meeting night during the week of final examinations. No change in scheduling is permitted without unanimous consent of all students in the class and the director of LPS. A LPS final exam may not be administered during the last week of class or on a reading day.

12. In all matters relating to final exams, students with questions should first consult with their Dean’s offices. Faculty wishing to seek exceptions to the rules also should consult with their Dean’s offices. Finally, the Council of Undergraduate Deans and SCUE urge instructors to see that all examinations are actively proctored.

Class Standing

A student’s class standing is determined by the number of credit units the student has accumulated on their transcript at Penn. This may include A.P. credit, transfer credit from other institutions and credit issued for departmental examinations if they appear on your Penn transcript. Course work in progress is taken into consideration in determining a student's classification for Advance Registration for a future term. Transfer students to LPS should note that transfer credit from former institutions may not be posted to the Penn transcript until after the drop/add period of their second semester enrolled at Penn.

For LPS students, the classification is as follows:

- Freshman: less than 8.00 CU
- Sophomore: from 8.00 - 15.99 CU
- Junior: from 16.00 - 23.99 CU
- Senior: from 24.00 CU

Course Load

First semester students beginning in fall or spring are limited to 4.5 CU; students beginning during summer are limited to 4 CU. Students are there after limited to 5.5 CU per semester in the Fall and Spring semesters. Students can raise their credit limits with permission from their LPS advisor. This requires a g.p.a. of 3.3 or better, no outstanding Incompletes and previous success with a 5 CU load. Students on probation are limited to 4.5 course units.

ALL students enrolling in coursework during the Penn Summer semester are limited to 4 CU total for the overall term. Students meeting the above criteria who wish to enroll in more than 4 CU during the Penn Summer semester must submit a petition to the LPS
Executive Committee no later than four weeks prior to first day of summer classes and must receive approval in writing before registering for more than 4 CU. Students registering for summer term should note that the LPS 12-week course offerings are similar in pace to those during fall and spring terms. College of Arts and Sciences courses offered during the two 6-week Summer Session terms are equal to those in hours and workload as those in a regularly formatted semester, but the turnaround time in which to accomplish that work is very condensed; a student taking 2 cu during Summer I and 2 cu during Summer II is managing the equivalent of a full-time course load during the entirety of summer and must consider their ability to do so. Enrolling for more than 2 cu during either of the Summer Sessions must be very carefully considered.

Students should consult with appropriate offices outside of LPS before any action is taken that would cause the student to earn less than 4 CU in a given term. The number of course units a student carries may impact eligibility for, and access to, services and contracts external to LPS, both within and outside of Penn. LPS advisors do not have specific knowledge of students’ status with other offices and cannot provide advising on the policies of those offices. It is the responsibility of the student to adhere to policies set forth by, and seek advising from, appropriate offices outside of LPS. When making registration changes, students are strongly advised to investigate with other Penn offices how the course load they carry might affect billing, financial aid, scholarships, health services, health insurance, immunization requirements, international student visa status, employee tuition benefits, recreational facilities, campus housing, and any other arrangements they may have with offices external to LPS.

Provisional Admission

The LPS Admissions Committee accepts some students on a provisional basis. Provisionally admitted student are given an opportunity to strengthen their record by successfully completing four undergraduate courses before being reassessed for full admission. Students accepting this opportunity must achieve a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.7 in their first four courses in order to be fully admitted and continue their studies at Penn. Students unable to meet the criteria will be dropped from the program, and will not be eligible to resume undergraduate degree study through LPS.

The following policies apply to provisionally admitted students:

1. Provisionally admitted students must consult with an LPS advisor before the start of classes to discuss their goals, and to seek counsel on course selection as well as a strategy toward success at Penn.
2. Provisionally admitted students may choose to complete their four provisional courses on a full- or part-time basis. Students are strongly urged to seriously consider a realistic balance among course load, university life, and other life events and responsibilities. These considerations vary widely among students but may include employment, family, financial, and health issues, among others.
3. Provisionally admitted students must select their first four courses from within the School of Arts and Sciences undergraduate level offerings (001 through 499); students may not enroll in courses offered by other schools at Penn while their status remains provisional.

4. Students must enroll in their first four courses for a normal letter grade.

5. Students who choose to complete more than four courses during their provisional status must be prepared to have ALL grades calculated into the cumulative grade point average evaluated for full admission. In other words, a provisionally admitted student who completes two courses in their first semester and four courses in a later semester may not hand pick their four best grades; the total cumulative grade point average for ALL courses must meet the minimum 2.7 in order to continue studying at Penn.

6. Provisional admission status has no bearing on federal and university financial aid eligibility; students are encouraged to apply for assistance and seek counsel through Student Financial Services just like all students.

7. LPS offers a limited number of scholarships for competitive part-time students only; provisionally admitted students are not eligible to receive these scholarships until they have been successfully met criteria for full admission.

8. The University of Pennsylvania reserves the right to rescind admission to a student in violation of its codes of conduct and/or personal responsibilities policies. All students are expected to have read and understood these codes and policies—which are published at the link below—before coming to campus.

http://provost.upenn.edu/policies/pennbook

Maintaining Academic Standing

LPS students must maintain academic standing and make adequate progress toward the degree. Maintaining academic standing requires LPS students to meet all of the following conditions:

- Maintain a cumulative G.P.A. of 2.0 or higher
- Earn a term G.P.A. of 2.0 or higher
- Accumulate no more than two Incompletes, Fs, or Withdrawals in one term
- Accumulate no more than five Incompletes, Fs, or Withdrawals during the course of their academic career
- Make adequate progress toward the degree, earning at least 2 course units each academic year.
Graduation

LPS students must submit an application for graduation according to the deadlines below. Students who are uncertain when they will complete their final requirements should consult with an LPS advisor to determine when to submit an application.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Semester of Graduation</th>
<th>Application Due Date</th>

<tr>
<td>August 2013</td>
<td>April 1&lt;sup&gt;st&lt;/sup&gt; &lt;i&gt;(if NOT participating in May ceremonies)&lt;/i&gt;</td>
</tr>

The graduation application is an online form, available on the LPS website under the Current Students link. Failure to submit a graduation application by published deadlines may result in omission of the student’s name from University commencement publications and create problems in obtaining appropriate regalia for commencement ceremonies. The application also triggers an academic audit of outstanding requirements toward the degree, and inclusion on the graduation list serve from which further information about graduation will be communicated. If you miss the application deadline, consult your LPS advisor immediately.

Although LPS students may complete their degree requirements and officially graduate in December, May, or August, graduation ceremonies are held once per academic cycle in May. Students graduating in December are eligible to participate in ceremonies the following May. Students graduating in August are eligible to participate in ceremonies the previous May, and complete their remaining coursework during the following summer semester. Regardless of participation in ceremonies, students may be officially graduated only once they have completed all requirements and final grades are posted to the transcript.

Students must consult with their LPS and major advisor to determine any outstanding requirements they might have, and to have their Penn InTouch academic planning worksheet updated and certified accordingly. Once grades have been posted for the final semester, each major department must certify its major students as having met its respective standards and major requirements. Students who have applied for graduation will receive a curriculum requirements audit email from the LPS advisor.

Students with special concerns or problems should make an appointment with the LPS advisor (215-746-7040) to discuss their plans prior to the start of their last term in LPS. Students are required to avail themselves of their degree requirements, and are advised to monitor their progress toward fulfilling degree requirements via Penn InTouch as well as through regular consultation with advisors.

Diplomas will be mailed to graduates approximately 10 – 12 weeks after completion of degree, and will be sent to the permanent address as listed in Penn InTouch. Students are advised to verify that the permanent address field in Penn InTouch is current at the time of graduation.

Degree Requirements

Students are responsible for fulfilling all the requirements of their curriculum. At the end of junior year, students should confirm that their Academic Planning Worksheet on Penn InTouch is updated and accurate. This includes meeting with the general and major advisors to be sure that the worksheet has been updated with all relevant courses. The LPS advisor will update the student’s general requirements upon request throughout the student’s career, and will provide a graduation audit of completed and outstanding general requirements after the student submits a graduation application; the student will need to consult with a major advisor for the same.

Credits for Graduation

The total number of credit units (“c.u.,” or “credits”) needed for graduation varies between 32 and 36 depending on the number of credits required in the major. Each major specifies a certain number of credits that must be completed, but never less than 12. In addition to the major, students must normally complete 20 credits outside the major. No more than 36 credits will be required for graduation. Those whose majors require more than 16 credits may take correspondingly fewer than 20 outside the major.

The 20 credits taken outside the major will include courses taken to fulfill General Education requirements and Free Electives. Some of the general education courses will also count toward the major (see Policies for the particular requirement). In this case students will take additional Free Electives. Since LPS confers a bachelor of arts degree, 16 of the 20 credits outside the major must be Arts and Sciences courses. This means that most students may count as many as four courses from schools outside Arts and Sciences towards the degree. Students who wish to take more than the minimum number of credits for graduation may take even more than four courses from other schools. If a major requires more than 16 credits, correspondingly fewer than 4 courses from other schools may be counted toward the degree.

Grade Point Average

Students must maintain a 2.0 overall grade point average, and a 2.0 (or better, depending on the department) in major courses.
Application for Graduation

An application for graduation must be submitted early in the semester prior to that in which the student expects to complete their final courses toward the degree. Seniors must adhere to the graduation schedule provided in the LPS BA Student Handbook. A late fee may be charged for failure to apply for graduation by the date specified. Check the application timeline for May, August and December graduation. It is the student’s responsibility to be aware of upcoming deadlines, including the deadline for completion of the graduation application.

Major and Minor Certification

Each department, program or individualized major advisor will certify students as having met the requirements for the respective majors and minors. Seniors should consult with an advisor in the department in which they major or minor, to confirm completion and certification of the Academic Planning Worksheet and official posting to the student’s transcript.

Residency Requirement

Students must also be registered for their last 8 course units at the Penn, including registration through its approved programs for study abroad. Students with less than 3 c.u. to complete for graduation may petition for permission from the LPS Executive Committee to finish those credits elsewhere, though such permission will only be granted in cases with extenuating circumstances.

No student may graduate with a B.A. from the University of Pennsylvania unless he or she has completed at Penn at least one-half of the total number of required credit units. He or she must also complete at Penn at least one-half of the courses required for his or her major (though some major programs may require more than this number).

POLICIES REGARDING PROGRAM ENROLLMENT STATUS

Enrollment Status

To be considered enrolled at Penn, a student must maintain registration in a course or courses. Students who defer their enrollment or take limited time off may be considered to have an active program status (see the section in this handbook on maintaining academic standing) but are not considered currently enrolled. A Penn student identification card will be valid and active, and afford access to related services and resources, only during semesters in which the student maintains registration in courses, regardless of the expiration date.
Students wishing to take time off from registering for courses in order to resolve former grades of Incomplete may be eligible to access university resources with a temporary identification card for which a semester fee is charged. To investigate eligibility, students must consult with the LPS advisor before the start of the term in which they wish to request this status.

Deferred Enrollment

Students who are admitted to LPS may defer their matriculation for up to one year. Students who wish to do so should notify LPS of their intentions as early as possible. It is not necessary for officially deferred students to reapply. However, students must inform LPS if they enroll at any other institution prior to their matriculation at LPS, and they must submit final official transcripts of any coursework completed prior to their enrollment at LPS. An applicant who has not registered for and completed courses within one year of acceptance will be required to reapply.

Inactive Status

Students who do not enroll in courses for four consecutive terms, including summer, will be in inactive status. They will be officially dropped from the student rolls of the University of Pennsylvania as of the fourth term not enrolled. After being dropped, students wishing to resume their studies at Penn are required to reapply for admission and pay a new application fee. Undergraduate degree candidates are advised that they must also make adequate academic progress in their programs as outlined under “Maintaining Academic Standing” and “Failure to Maintain Academic Standing.”

Current Students Taking Courses at Other Institutions

Once matriculated at Penn, LPS students must take all their coursework at Penn. However, students in the College of Liberal and Professional Studies’ B.A. or A.A. programs may request formal permission to enroll in a four-year, regionally accredited, American college or university for credit toward the University of Pennsylvania degree provided there is a compelling reason for doing so, such as a physical relocation or a course that is not offered at Penn.

In such cases, students must obtain approval by petition from LPS to take the course away (using the Credit Away Form) as well as approval from the relevant Penn department to transfer the credit back to Penn (using XCAT). The student must submit these forms to LPS early in the semester prior to leaving Penn, and upon return must submit to LPS an official transcript of the completed course work. After matriculating at Penn, degree candidates may take no more than five course units at another institution, and they must complete their final eight courses at Penn except by petition to the Executive Committee.
Leave of Absence

Students must speak with an LPS advisor to discuss a leave request. The student must submit a written request for leave of absence, detailing the reasons for the desired leave, and the semester in which they plan to return.

Duration

The standard length of an official LPS leave of absence is one year. Students who remain on leave longer than one year will be withdrawn from active status, and will need to apply and be readmitted before resuming their studies.

Return from Leave of Absence

When a student wishes to return from a leave of absence, he or she must submit a request to return no less than one month prior to the start of the desired semester or before the beginning of the relevant Advance Registration period, if the student wishes to advance register. This is done by contacting an advisor in the LPS Office and asking to return from leave. Any return request submitted to LPS later than the above-indicated deadlines may be denied by LPS, even if the student appears to have met all other conditions set forth in the original leave letter. Timely submission of requests and documentation are conditions of all leaves.

Conditions for Return

In some cases, a Leave of Absence will stipulate conditions that must be met in order for a student to return. All conditions for return as specified in the original letter granting approval for the leave must be satisfied before the beginning of the term in which the student wishes to enroll. Students who have not satisfied all conditions of their return by the first day of classes may be denied return from leave, or, if they have been provisionally returned, may be placed back on leave until the following semester.

Withdrawal from the University

A student who wishes to withdraw from the University must inform the LPS advisor in writing. If a student withdraws after the fifth week of the semester, all course grades from that semester will be reported on the transcript as W (withdrawal).
Transfer Within the University

Transfer into Other LPS Programs

LPS students apply to and are admitted into specific programs, such as Bachelor of Arts or Non-Degree Undergraduate Studies. A student who has been admitted to one LPS program but subsequently wishes to pursue another must apply and be admitted to the program of interest. For example, students initially admitted to LPS through the Non-Degree Undergraduate Studies Program may apply to the Bachelor of Arts program upon completion of four courses at Penn. All four courses must be taken for a letter grade (except foreign languages, which may be taken Pass/Fail).

Students may apply to a degree program through admissions. Program information, admissions criteria, and applications can be found on the LPS website. Current students interested in transferring to other programs should first meet with the LPS advisor.

Transfers from LPS to The College

Since LPS offers the same degree as the College of Arts and Sciences, the College does not consider LPS students for admission.

Transfer from LPS to Other Schools at Penn

Students in the College of Liberal and Professional Studies who have completed at least eight courses and who wish to transfer from LPS to another school in the University are required to meet with the LPS advisor to discuss their plans. The student should contact the school of interest directly to learn of the admissions requirements to that school. The LPS advisor can initiate the process of forwarding the Internal Transfer form to the new school. The new school will notify students whether they have been admitted. Students who want to transfer to another school in the University but who have not completed eight course units in the College of Liberal and Professional Studies should withdraw officially from LPS and apply directly to the new school of choice through the Transfer Admissions Office, 1 College Hall.

Transfer from Other Schools at Penn into LPS

Applicants who have been denied admission to any Bachelor's degree program at the University of Pennsylvania must wait one year before applying to the LPS Bachelor of Arts Program. All internal transfers to LPS under the age of 21 will be restricted to part-time status with a limit of 2 course units per semester, whether day or evening courses, until the semester in which the student turns 21.

Before filing an Internal Transfer form, students wishing to transfer to LPS from other schools within the University are required to make an appointment with the LPS advisor. Students in undergraduate schools must have completed eight course units and have no outstanding grades of Incomplete, GRs or NRs on their record. The deadline for submitting applications for internal transfer into LPS is two weeks after the start of the term. Applications include the internal transfer form, the LPS application, and a current transcript.

Students currently on leave from an undergraduate school must first be reinstated by that school before requesting internal transfer to LPS. Students who have been dropped for poor academic performance by any undergraduate school of the University must wait at least one academic year before reapplying to their home school with the intent of internally transferring to the College of Liberal and Professional Studies. In addition, they must submit a regular LPS application form.

POLICIES GOVERNING GRADES

Credit System

Academic credit toward the Penn degree is figured in “course units” (CUs). Most courses earn one CU, with some lab courses earning one-half CU. A course unit is usually equivalent to a three- or four-credit course at other institutions.

Grading System

The following grades are used to report the standing of a student upon completion of each course.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

GR = No Grade reported for student
NR = No Grades reported for course
I = Incomplete (see below)
II = Extended Incomplete (see below)
P = Pass (A+ to D)
Pass/Fail Option

Pass/Fail is an option to encourage students to take courses in subjects that they might avoid if they were required to enroll on a standard graded basis. Regulations concerning this Pass/Fail option are listed below:

1. In courses taken Pass/Fail, the standard letter grades A-D are converted to P by the Registrar. A failure is posted as an F.

2. Degree candidates or prospective degree candidates are not permitted to take more than 20 percent of their courses at Penn Pass/Fail.

3. All courses taken to fulfill distributional, general, foundational, and sector requirements must be taken for a letter grade. Courses in the major may not be taken Pass/Fail if the courses are to be used to satisfy major requirements. Courses taken to fulfill the language requirement and free electives may be taken Pass/Fail.

4. Grades of P are not computed when determining students’ grade point averages; grades of F are computed.

5. The Pass/Fail option stipulates that the instructor is not to be informed of those students who have enrolled Pass/Fail.

6. Students who wish to change from Pass/Fail to a letter grade or a letter grade to Pass/Fail must do so by the published deadline (please refer to the LPS website Academic Calendar for term-specific dates). After this period, students must petition the LPS Petition Review Committee. Such changes are granted only under extraordinary circumstances.

Incomplete Grades

An incomplete grade indicates that a student has not completed all the work in a course and has done so with the instructor’s permission. If the work for a course is incomplete as a result of the student’s unexplained failure to hand in assignments or to take the final examination at the regularly scheduled time, the instructor should issue a grade of F for the course.
An instructor who chooses to grant an extension to a student who has not completed a course by the end of the term may grant either an Incomplete (I) or an Extended Incomplete (II). An Incomplete must be made up within the first four weeks of the start of the next term, and an Extended Incomplete must be made up by the end of the next term (including the summer term). In either case, if the Incomplete is not made up by the deadline, it will become an F. An Incomplete is made up only when the official grade is received by the LPS Office and recorded by the Registrar’s office on the student’s official transcript. Once an Incomplete grade is converted to an F, the instructor may change the grade after the student has completed all required work. Students with two or more Incomplete grades are subject to registration hold and are required to meet with the LPS advisor to explain the circumstances of the Incompletes and develop a plan to resolve them. Students with two or more outstanding grades of incomplete will not be allowed to register for courses; students with two or more outstanding grades of incomplete who have already registered will be dropped from courses.

Review of a Grade

The instructor who gives an evaluation, exam, or course grade has sole authority for changing such evaluation, exam, or course grade provided the instructor remains on the faculty (or the emeritus faculty) of the University of Pennsylvania. In cases in which faculty appointments have terminated, or faculty have resigned or are deceased, sole authority for changing an evaluation rests with the Undergraduate Chair of the relevant department.

LPS students who wish to have an evaluation, exam, or course grade reviewed must first discuss the matter with the instructor who gave the evaluation unless the instructor is no longer a member of the University of Pennsylvania faculty or emeritus faculty. Should this meeting not yield a resolution that is satisfactory to both the student and the instructor, or not be possible, the student may ask the Undergraduate Chair of the relevant department for assistance in the matter.

A student who has a concern about any other matter related to a course should first discuss the matter with the instructor of the course. Should this meeting not yield a resolution that is satisfactory to both the student and the instructor, or not be possible, the student may ask the relevant undergraduate chair or program director for assistance in the matter.

Should the matter not be resolved with the aid of the undergraduate chair or program director, then the student may seek the assistance of the Executive Director of LPS. The role of the Executive Director is limited to insuring that the department or program has arranged for a proper review of the matter.
Repeating a Course

Students who receive an F in a course may retake the course for credit. Both the new grade and the original F will be tabulated into the final g.p.a. and a credit unit will be awarded if the student receives a passing grade.

If a student fails a course that is required for a major, he or she should think carefully before taking the course again, since poor performance in an introductory course may indicate a need to consider another major. Some students opt to repeat a course in order to demonstrate their ability to achieve a better grade. If a student re-takes a course for which he or she has received a passing grade (including a P in a pass/fail course), the second grade will be recorded on the transcript, but it will not be counted in the student’s cumulative average, and no additional credit will be awarded for it.

Please note: A few courses offered at Penn are sufficiently alike that the SAS will not grant credit for both if both are taken. These include (but are not limited to):

Physics 101 and Physics 15050
Statistics 101 and 111, and Mathematics 114 and 115.

Students should check with the LPS advisor if there are any questions.

Grade Point Average

Grade point average (g.p.a.) is computed at the end of each semester and on a cumulative basis. The numerical values of letter grades are:

- A+ = 4.0
- A = 4.0
- A- = 3.7
- B+ = 3.3
- B = 3.0
- B- = 2.7
- C+ = 2.3
- C = 2.0
- C- = 1.7
- D+ = 1.3
- D = 1.0
- (There is no D-)
- F = 0.0

The g.p.a. is calculated by multiplying the credit units for each course (usually 1 CU) by the numerical equivalent of the grade received. The total for all courses is then divided by the total number of credit units taken. Students may calculate the g.p.a. for a selected group of courses (major or minor courses, for example), by using the “g.p.a. calculator” function of the Academic Planning Worksheet on Penn InTouch.

POLICIES GOVERNING ACADEMIC DIFFICULTY

Course Problem Notices
When the work of a student in a given course becomes unsatisfactory for any reason, the instructor may send a Course Problem Notice email to the student. This notice will indicate the nature of the problem and suggest an appropriate person for the student to meet with, including the instructor, a teaching assistant, or an academic advisor. Students are expected to follow the recommendations made in these notices.

Failures

The grade of F remains on the record and is not erased even if students have repeated the course with a passing grade. Students who fail a major or major-related course may be required to repeat the course at the discretion of the major advisor. A grade of F is always calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

Failure to Maintain Academic Standing

LPS students must maintain academic standing and make adequate progress toward the degree. Maintaining academic standing requires LPS students to meet all of the following conditions:

- Maintain a cumulative G.P.A. of 2.0 or higher
- Earn a term G.P.A. of 2.0 or higher
- Accumulate no more than two Incompletes, Fs, or Withdrawals in one term
- Accumulate no more than five Incompletes, Fs, or Withdrawals during the course of their academic career
- Make adequate progress toward the degree, earning at least 2 course units each academic year.

Academic Probation

1. Academic Probation: Students who fail to meet one or more of the conditions listed above will be placed on academic probation. Students on Academic Probation will be required to meet with the LPS advisor and may be placed on registration hold. It is expected that all students on probation will be enrolled in the term following probation.

2. Deferred Drop Probation: Students may be placed on Deferred Drop Probation if they fail to meet the requirements for recovery from Academic Probation, or their academic term G.P.A. is below 1.70. Students on deferred drop probation must achieve a minimum G.P.A. of 2.00 for that semester. If they do not, they may be dropped from the rolls. Students on Deferred Drop Probation will be required to meet with the LPS advisor and will be placed on registration hold until they meet with the LPS advisor. It is expected that all students on probation will be enrolled in the term following probation.

3. Mandatory Leave of Absence: Students who accumulate two or more incomplete grades in a given semester may be placed on a mandatory leave of absence until such work is finished. Students placed on mandatory leave must complete all outstanding course work before they are allowed to re-enroll and continue with new work. Students on mandatory leave of absence may not receive credit at Penn for courses taken at another institution during the leave.

4. Conditions to be restored to good academic standing: Students who are on academic probation must remedy the condition(s) that placed them on academic probation within the next three courses they take, with no grades of W, F, I, GR, or NR and no more than one Pass/Fail course.

5. Conditions for readmission: Students who have been dropped for poor academic performance and who wish to be considered for readmission must contact the LPS advisor for requirements and procedures for readmission. Students will not be considered for readmission for one full calendar year following dismissal. Credit will not be given for courses taken at another institution during that year. If a student is readmitted, the student must maintain good academic standing through to graduation. If the student fails to meet these conditions, the student will be dropped from the University without further warning, and with no opportunity for readmission.

POLICIES GOVERNING HONORS

Dean’s List

College of Liberal and Professional Studies undergraduate students are eligible for appointment to the Dean’s List for distinctive academic course work. Eligible students must have completed a minimum of four courses for letter grades during the academic year from September to May, maintained a 3.7 cumulative grade point average or higher, received no grades lower than a C, and received no incompletes, NR’s or GR’s during these two semesters. The Dean’s List is compiled at the end of each academic year after the spring term grades have been submitted. A notation on the transcript will be made for those students who qualify.

Students who are found by the Office of Student Conduct to have violated the Code of Academic Integrity of the University of Pennsylvania or who have received a sanction of suspension or greater for other violations of the Code of Student Conduct are not eligible for Dean’s List in the academic year in which the violation occurred. The Dean’s List citation will be removed from the transcript if the finding occurs after this honor has been posted or if the violation occurs during the summer term following the academic year in which this honor was awarded.

Post-baccalaureate students in LPS who are enrolled in either undergraduate or graduate courses are not eligible.
Honors in the Major

Students with a minimum g.p.a. of 3.0 may apply to their department or program to become candidates for honors in the major. Some majors will require a higher g.p.a.. Applications for honors in the major are usually taken in the first semester of their junior year.

The requirements for honors in the major vary from program to program and may include special courses and individual research on specialized subjects under the guidance of a major advisor. In some departments additional credit is authorized for work done by honors candidates. Students who complete honors in the major will have this designation entered on their transcript.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Delta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded at the University of Pennsylvania in 1892. The Electoral Board meets every spring to elect new students who have distinguished themselves through undergraduate research and by breadth of study in the liberal arts.

Selection Process

Students may not apply for Phi Beta Kappa. Those juniors with a 3.85 g.p.a. or higher and seniors with a 3.7 g.p.a. or higher by the end of the fall semester are automatically considered and their transcripts are evaluated by the Board, which also solicits letters of recommendation for eligible students.

The records of students who graduated the previous year are reviewed, and a number of these students may be elected as well. Therefore, each student is granted at least two opportunities for review by the committee.

Students who have Incompletes on their transcripts may be denied membership. Students must have a minimum of 16 completed credits and not have been subject to a disciplinary action for an academic integrity violation in order to be eligible.

It is the practice of the Delta Chapter to elect no more than 8 percent of the graduating class each year. A small number of juniors is also selected at the spring meeting.

Eligibility

In addition to grades, the committee looks for independent research, participation in honors programs, advanced work in the major and in cognate disciplines, and evidence of intellectual rigor in an undergraduate program.
Notification

Students are notified of election by letter at the end of the spring term, prior to graduation.

Latin Honors

Latin Honors are awarded to those graduating seniors who have achieved a cumulative grade point average at or above each of three levels:

- 3.80 or higher: summa cum laude
- 3.60 to 3.79: magna cum laude
- 3.40 to 3.59: cum laude

Students who are found by the Office of Student Conduct to have violated the Code of Academic Integrity of the University of Pennsylvania or who have received a sanction of suspension or greater for other violations of the Code of Student Conduct are not eligible for Graduation Honors. Notation of Graduation Honors will be removed from the transcript if the finding occurs after this honor has been posted.

LPS Academic Awards

Every year, three College of Liberal and Professional Studies undergraduate students receive special awards: The Association of Alumnae Continuing Education Award, given to the student whose scholarship and qualities of leadership are regarded as being the most outstanding; the Ronald J. Caridi Award is given to the student who best exemplifies the uncompromising commitment to scholarship, hard work, and the life of the mind which the late Ronald J. Caridi embodied and shared with so many; and the Linda Bowen Santoro Award, given by the LPS Alumni Association to a student with unusual motivation and dedication in the pursuit of an undergraduate degree.

ACADEMIC OPPORTUNITIES

The College of Liberal and Professional Studies provides exciting opportunities for you to enhance your academic experience. We encourage you to look beyond the basics when selecting courses and meeting curriculum requirements. By taking advantage of the academic options below, you can create a truly interesting and enriching undergraduate program that is uniquely your own.
Writing Programs

www.writing.upenn.edu/

The Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing (CPCW) brings together all of Penn’s writing programs to form a collaborative whole.

- The Critical Writing Program offers discipline-based writing seminars that satisfy the Writing Requirement.
- The Creative Writing Program offers workshops in fiction, non-fiction, poetry, journalistic writing, screenwriting, and playwriting.

Public Speaking

www.college.upenn.edu/communication-within-the-curriculum

Communication Within the Curriculum (CWiC) is Penn's public speaking program. Its mission is to help students express themselves orally with clarity and confidence.
CWiC Speaking Advisors are undergraduate students trained in public speaking. CWiC Advisors teach workshops and provide coaching sessions for individual and group presentations.

For more information on scheduling a session with a CWiC Speaking Advisor or becoming a CWiC Speaking Advisor, go to the CWiC website.

Majors, Minors, and Degree Options

Double Majors

A student pursuing a double major satisfies the requirements for two separate majors within the College but earns a single B.A. degree.

Minors

http://www.college.upenn.edu/minors

Many students choose to complete one or more minors in order to bring an element of cohesiveness to their electives. Students often choose a minor in order to pursue secondary areas of interest, develop skills or a knowledge base to complement their major, or to express themselves creatively.

Submatriculation

The submatriculation program allows students in LPS to obtain both a baccalaureate degree and a master’s degree simultaneously. When considering submatriculation, students should be in a position to complete most of their undergraduate degree requirements by the end of the seventh semester. Submatriculation Students who wish to begin a graduate program while still in their undergraduate years are permitted to apply for admission as submatriculants to some of the University’s graduate areas of study. With the permission of the appropriate undergraduate and graduate faculties, submatriculants may take four graduate courses that will count for both undergraduate and graduate degrees while they are registered as undergraduate students. Independent Study courses may not be double-counted.

Students must apply for sub-matriculation when they have no less than eight to 16 CUs remaining to be taken for the B.A. degree. Admission into the program is highly selective. In order to qualify, it is necessary for the student to maintain a superior grade point average overall and in the major.
No graduate level courses taken and completed prior to official acceptance in the relevant graduate program can be counted toward the master’s degree.

Interested students should consult the LPS advisor and both the undergraduate and graduate chairpersons of the relevant department prior to completing the necessary submatriculation application forms. Students must also complete the regular application for graduate school admission and, in most cases, take the Graduate Record Exam.

Undergraduate students may submatriculate into participating graduate programs in:

- School of Arts and Sciences
- College of Liberal and Professional Studies
- Graduate School of Education
- School of Design
- School of Medicine (Ph.D. only)
- Fels Program in Government Administration
- School of Veterinary Medicine
- Law School
- School of Engineering (Biotechnology)
- School of Social Policy and Practice
- School of Dental Medicine (A few students enter LPS as bio-dental submatriculants with a major in biology in LPS, going into the School of Dental Medicine after completing the necessary requirements in three years.)

The Joint B.A. / J.D.

This rigorous program offers an opportunity for highly qualified and motivated students to apply to Penn Law School during the first semester of their junior year and to submatriculate into the J.D. program in their senior year.

Study Off Campus

Penn Summer Abroad

www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/locations/abroad

The Penn Summer Abroad (PSA) program offers undergraduate courses that are taught abroad during the summer for Penn credit. Programs run from 2 to 6 weeks and the accelerated courses are taught by Penn faculty or faculty at partner universities. The programs are sponsored by departments in the School of Arts and Sciences and administered by Penn’s College of Liberal and Professional Studies (LPS). Participants include students from all the undergraduate schools at Penn. Most of the programs also welcome students from other universities.
Penn Summer Abroad programs are designed for undergraduate students at accredited U.S. or international institutions. Some programs may accept graduate students on a case-by-case basis. All programs require that students are in good academic and judicial standing. Refer to your particular programs and courses for any additional criteria or prerequisites.

All students, including current Penn as well as visiting students, must complete the online application to be considered for a Penn Summer Abroad program.

For more information on Penn Summer Abroad options, information sessions, and application deadlines, please visit the above link on the LPS Website.

Penn Study Abroad

http://sa.oip.upenn.edu

Study abroad can be an important and enriching part of a liberal arts education. While engaging in international study, students develop a true understanding of international diversity through immersion in other cultures and by studying in other languages.

Each year, approximately 600 Penn undergraduate students attend credit-bearing programs abroad in more than fifty countries. Students may choose to study for a single fall or spring semester, or study abroad for the full academic year.

Independent Study

LPS B.A. degree candidates in good standing may be eligible to enroll in an Independent Study course if: the proposed independent study does not duplicate an LPS course offering; the student has completed an introductory course in the same department or program as the independent study; and the department or program approves the independent study.

LPS Students are required to first consult with an LPS advisor early in the semester preceding that in which they plan to undertake the independent study to discuss their interest. If eligible, the LPS Advisor will provide the Independent Study Course Approval Form. The student must find a standing faculty member who agrees to supervise the proposed project, obtain information and signatures from the supervising instructor and the sponsoring department or program, and complete the form. The scanned file should be named in the following manner: lastname_firstname_year; ex. Smith_John 2013. The student must scan the form and submit it via email to both their LPS Advisor and to Joseph Hallman at
The completed form must be submitted no later than two weeks prior to the first day of classes of the semester in which the Independent Study is to be conducted. If approved, LPS will register the Independent Study and bill it at the LPS tuition rate.

The Washington Semester Program

The Washington Semester Program (WSP) is a semester long program for Penn undergrads interested in learning political and governmental processes by interning and taking courses in Washington, DC. It provides students with the opportunity to combine practical experience while studying in the nation’s capital.

The WSP is suitable for students who have a serious interest in public policy, politics, and government. Majors include political science, economics, humanities, and a number of others. The program features three to four course units of study (which can include an independent research project) and a work assignment in an organization or agency related to the student’s career and research interests.

The program is led by Dr. Kathryn Dunn Tenpas, Adjunct Associate Professor of Political Science and Non-resident Senior Fellow at The Brookings Institution. All living and classroom arrangements are located at the University of California Washington Center, located in downtown Washington.

Are you a Washington, D.C. organization looking to hire Penn student interns? E-mail your announcements to d_martinez@sas.upenn.edu.

Internships

Penn recognizes that it is important for students to gain practical experience through internship programs that augment their formal education and enhance their professional preparation. LPS prefers that its students be paid for their work, but when this is not an option and companies insist that the students receive credit as a condition of their "employment," LPS will place a notation as a "comment" on their transcript indicating that they have completed an internship, e.g., "Internship: Summer 2013." Students will not earn a credit unit toward their degree, however. Students are required to meet with their LPS advisor before they begin the internship to discuss applying for this special notation.

In order for students to have a notation regarding their internship placed on their transcript, they must fill out a request form and submit it to the LPS Office. LPS will contact the sponsoring company/organization granting the student permission to work there as an intern while making it clear that the University will not indemnify the company or organization during the internship. The University will not insure the student during the internship. When the LPS Office receives confirmation that the student has successfully completed an internship, the notation will be placed on the transcript.

Penn Libraries

www.library.upenn.edu

Of the 15 University libraries, Van Pelt Library is the primary library for students in the arts and sciences, providing access to databases, full-text electronic journals, and reference sources not freely available through public search engines.

For help navigating Van Pelt Library’s wealth of resources, students may take a tour of Van Pelt, drop in during walk-in hours, schedule a one-on-one appointment with a reference librarian in a particular subject area, or set up an IM chat with a librarian.

The David B. Weigle Information Commons

www.wic.library.upenn.edu/

The David B. Weigle Information Commons opened its doors in April 2006. Located on the first floor (west) of the Van Pelt Dietrich Library Center, the Commons supports collaborative learning and group activities using the latest technologies. The Commons hosts student assistance services from three program partners - CWiC, Weingarten Learning Resources Center and Writing Center.

The Commons includes a variety of collaboration spaces including Group Study Rooms, Data Diner Booths, Alcove Meeting Areas, Seminar Room and the Vitale Digital Media Lab. The Commons uses many Web 2.0 technologies to connect with students and faculty.

The Weingarten Learning Resources Center houses the Office of Student Disabilities Services (SDS), which provides comprehensive professional services and programs for students with disabilities to ensure equal academic opportunities and participation in University-sponsored programs. Reasonable accommodation to a qualified student’s known disability may be provided to assure equal access. Penn invites students with disabilities to self-identify at any time during their course of study as enrolled students. Although the self-identification process is confidential and completely voluntary, it is required for those requesting accommodation. Additional information is available on their website.

The Tutoring Center

http://www.vpul.upenn.edu/tutoring

The Tutoring Center offers matriculating students individual peer tutoring in specific courses in the following formats: Satellite Tutoring Center locations across campus available by appointment, College House tutoring, and course-based student-led workshops and weekly review sessions, and end of semester special events tutorials. Check The Tutoring Center website for schedules, locations and times. The Old Exam File gives students access to faculty-approved online exams (without answers) for many courses. This service is intended for use by students as a study tool only, coupled with peer tutoring.

Marks Family Writing Center

http://writing.upenn.edu/critical/writing_center

The Penn Writing Center offers friendly, expert writing help to Penn undergraduate and graduate students. Writing tutors are trained to help students with any stage of the writing process, from brainstorming topics to proofreading final drafts.
Language Direct

http://www.plc.sas.upenn.edu

Language Direct is Penn Language Center’s free peer-tutoring program in foreign languages, committed to high educational standards. They deliver tutoring and instructional tools to help Penn students excel in their foreign language studies.

Language Direct provides some essential tools to help students excel in the foreign language curriculum at the University of Pennsylvania. They deliver one-on-one, face-to-face tutoring as well as learning aids over the Internet. They also supplement this service with online capability such as BlackBoard and voice-email.

Penn Language Center developed this program with extremely high standards. Their goal is to help students obtain a level of foreign language competency that is comparable to that provided by the best foreign language programs in other universities.

http://www.vpul.upenn.edu/aap/penncap

PENNCAP (Pennsylvania College Achievement Program) works closely with academically talented students, many from low-income or first-generation backgrounds, to support their success during their entire four years at Penn, from matriculation to graduation. Professional staff provide coaching, counseling, academic support, cultural enrichment, and assistance in developing meaningful personal and educational goals.

PENNCAP assists students with important life issues, such as identifying personal life priorities, clarifying career objectives, developing a financial budgeting plan, and maximizing their success at Penn. PENNCAP students generally, but not always, begin the program by participating in the Pre-Freshman Program (PFP), a four-week academic experience augmented by counseling, academic coaching, and cultural activities. In PFP, students make personal connections with faculty, staff and fellow students, become familiar with the institution, experience first-hand the academic culture of the University, and set the stage for their next four years at Penn.

POST-GRADUATE PREPARATION

Center for Undergraduate Research and Fellowships

http://www.upenn.edu/curf

The Center for Undergraduate Research and Fellowships (CURF) supports and endorses students applying for the major international, post-graduate, and other competitive fellowships, which are generally for graduate study. CURF also provides information and assistance for undergraduates seeking research opportunities or funding for research, either through the University or elsewhere.

CURF helps Penn undergraduates pursue independent research through personal Research Consultations and administration of competitive research grants.

As one of the world’s leading research universities, Penn has a broad array of faculty conducting cutting-edge research in all disciplines. CURF helps Penn undergraduates become involved in research by helping you identify resources, narrow your search, and shape your initial inquiries so you can find appropriate faculty mentors and research funding.

The best place to start is CURF’s Research Directory, where Penn faculty and researchers have posted research projects in which undergraduates may participate. Students may find a researcher who is conducting research that intrigues you. Reviewing the Directory will help students see how faculty describe their projects, which should help them begin the process of shaping their own research questions.

After reviewing the Research Directory, call the CURF office at (215) 746-6488 to make an appointment for a Research Consultation.

Undergraduate Research Directory

http://www.upenn.edu/curf/research/research-directory

CURF maintains a database of faculty offering opportunities for undergraduates to participate in their research projects. Since research projects are ongoing and dynamic, some opportunities listed may no longer be available. This directory should therefore serve as a guide and a first step toward undergraduate research opportunities, but by no means the only source of information and opportunities. Select “Using the Research Directory” at left for access to (and some important instructions on using) the CURF Research Directory.

If you do not find an opportunity that matches your interests on CURF’s Research Directory, do not despair. Check out online suggestions for Finding a Faculty Mentor and Finding Other Faculty. For an appointment to strategize with CURF’s Associate Director for Undergraduate Research, Dr. Wallace Genser, call the CURF office at 215-746-6488.

Career Services

Suite 20, McNeil Building, 3718 Locust Walk

www.vpul.upenn.edu/careerservices
Eligibility

LPS degree candidates who are enrolled on a full-time basis may utilize all the services and resources available through Career Services, including the pre-health credentials service, the career library, job listings, programs, and workshops. Career counseling is also available to full-time students. Part-time degree candidates may utilize all the resources and services mentioned above except for career counseling, which is only available to part-time students who are within one year of graduation.

Overview

Career Services helps Penn students define their career goals and take the steps necessary to achieve them by providing resources and services on career direction and assessment, employment and admission to graduate and professional schools through individual advising, career seminars and workshops, online job and internship listings, networking, graduate school visits, career fairs and on-campus recruiting.

Resources tailored to undergraduates, including information on alumni mentoring, career fields by major, preparing resumes, interview skills and more, can be found at http://www.vpul.upenn.edu/careerservices/undergrad

While there are no pre-medicine or pre-law majors, Career Services provides online information and pre-professional advising for students interested in pursuing these professions. http://www.vpul.upenn.edu/careerservices/gradprof/index.php

Careers in Medicine

Students interested in a career in the health professions should familiarize themselves with the required courses needed for most medical schools (those for dental schools are very similar) and make contact with a pre-health advisor in Career Services early in their time at Penn. While certain science courses are required, students need not major in one of the natural sciences to study medicine, dentistry or veterinary medicine. Moreover, if all the requirements are not satisfied as an undergraduate, it is possible to complete them by taking post-baccalaureate courses.

The courses listed below will satisfy the basic requirements at most medical schools. However, requirements and policies do differ from school to school, so it is worth checking to see if there are any additional courses required at any schools you are likely to want to apply to—the state schools in your home state, for example. You can find the individual schools’ requirements in the book Medical School Admissions Requirements, available in the Career Services Library, or you can get information directly from the schools’ own admissions web sites.
The Core Courses:
- Biology (2 semesters with laboratory)
- General Chemistry (2 semesters with laboratory)
- Organic Chemistry (2 semesters with laboratory)
- Physics (2 semesters with laboratory)
- English/Writing (2 semesters)
- Mathematics (2 semesters)

Coming MCAT changes: There will be changes to the MCAT that are scheduled to be introduced in 2015. Among the changes will be the addition of a new section on "Behavioral and Social Science Principles," which will cover introductory-level material in Sociology, and Psychology. Also coming is the inclusion of Biochemistry, and Cell and Molecular Biology. These changes will affect the course preparation required for pre-medical students in the future. For details see www.aamc.org/initiatives/mr5/preliminary_recommendations

Students interested in pre-health careers should visit www.vpul.upenn.edu/careerservices/gradprof/healthprof or specific course recommendations, and for more information on health careers and on the application process itself.

Careers in Law

There is no pre-law major or required sequence of courses. Most law school admissions committees seek students with well-rounded liberal arts educations that develop strong writing, research and verbal skills. Throughout their college careers, students should seek balance in their course selections, regardless of their major, and should be sure that their curriculum provides both rigorous and increasingly more advanced coursework over the course of their undergraduate career.

To be a competitive law school applicant, it is important to perform well in one's undergraduate coursework. It is recommended that students choose a major out of genuine interest, rather than one they assume law schools will prefer. Strong candidates with all kinds of majors and minors, from Physics to Hispanic Studies to Anthropology, are admitted to law schools each year. Students are encouraged to speak with a pre-law advisor in Career Services as they approach the law school admissions process.

Exceptionally motivated students may also investigate the B.A./J.D. submatriculation program. For more on careers in law, see www.vpul.upenn.edu/careerservices/gradprof/law
Graduate Study

As students explore their majors, they should consider fields they might want to do graduate study in, taking opportunities to enroll in research methods courses and seminars in those fields (even if they are not part of the student’s major). They should also take advantage of the Undergraduate Research Directory and the many other resources for undergraduate research available at Penn.

Penn offers much to the student who wishes to study science at the highest levels. Those who wish to major in one of the natural sciences should take courses in that discipline in their first semester. Students should speak with the undergraduate chair of the department that interests them as they plan their first year. Students who successfully completed advanced coursework in science and math in high school may wish to take two science courses as well as math in their first semester.

Students talented in science should consider preparing for a Ph.D. program. It is extremely important to get as much advanced coursework and research experience as possible. Since the common language of science is math, and the common unit of study for most sciences has become the molecule, it is important to begin the study of math, chemistry and physics early in an undergraduate career.

Advising for students interested in graduate studies in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences is available for qualified students through Career Services and the Center for Undergraduate Research and Fellowship.

University Mediation Program

mediate@upenn.edu  215-898-9880

The University Mediation Program encourages Penn students who are involved in a personal dispute to contact the Program at 215-898-9880 to learn about choosing mediation methods to resolve conflict. A staff member of the program, specially trained in resolving disputes through mediation, can provide information and advice. If your problem seems suitable for resolution by mediation, and both sides agree to try mediation, the Program Coordinator will refer you to trained mediators (student, faculty and staff) who will work with both sides to help you research a mutually acceptable resolution of your differences.

What is mediation?

Mediation is a voluntary dispute resolution process designed to bring people in conflict together in one or more face-to-face meetings or indirect negotiations, facilitated by a mediator, to work out solutions to their differences. The mediator is a specially trained, impartial third party.

Why choose mediation?

Mediation is informal, confidential, effective, free, non-adversarial, and quick. The University Mediation Program assists students in resolving conflicts with roommates, neighbors, relationships, and student organization groups. A mediator can facilitate communication, help parties understand each others’ views, promote venting or emotional expression in a safe environment, deal with differences in perceptions and interests between parties, shift focus from the past to the future, and encourage parties to suggest creative settlements.

Office of the Ombudsman

The Ombudsman's office welcomes any member of the Penn community who is experiencing difficulty, conflict, or confusion in his or her work, studies, or life at the University more broadly. We offer an accessible and safe place to resolve differences, explore matters of concern, get information, improve communication or generate and evaluate options.
Our mission is to ameliorate those conditions that may impede community members finding satisfaction with their lives at Penn. Our door is open to students, staff, employees, and faculty. We encourage people to contact us at the earliest stages of a problem so that we can assist before it escalates.

Our office operates independently from the traditional organizational hierarchy, reporting only to an executive officer of the University in order to avoid any real or perceived conflicts of interest.

We do not participate in any formal University proceedings, such as disciplinary hearings or professional reviews. We do not keep formal records or official notes. Meetings are relaxed with no set protocols or agendas.

As a designated neutral, the ombudsman’s office does not take sides or represent any party. We do not advocate for particular positions, outcomes, or resolutions.

Finally, the Ombudsman’s Office values the privacy of its visitors. We will not identify our visitors nor discuss their concerns with anyone unless we have been given explicit permission to do so. We cannot guarantee complete confidentiality, however, as there are certain circumstances requiring disclosure, such as sexual harassment, discrimination, criminal activity, and risk of imminent harm to the visitor, to others, or to the welfare of the University.

Health Services

http://www.vpul.upenn.edu/shss 215-573-2523

Services include individual sessions for smoking cessation and stress reduction.

All full-time students must carry coverage for care at the Student Health Service, either through payment of the Clinical Fee or through enrollment in the Penn Student Insurance Plan (PSIP). Full-time students who have private or employer-sponsored insurance do not have to purchase the student plan, but they must still pay the clinical fee for coverage at the Student Health Service. Coverage for the Student Health Service is optional for part-time students. The Student Health Clinic is located at 3535 Market St. in the Promed building (at the corner of 36th and Market), on the first floor. Be sure to bring your PennCard and insurance information whenever you go for medical care. For hours and other information refer to the Student Health web site.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT SERVICES

Student Financial Services and Financial Aid

Financial aid eligibility is need-based, and in the case of LPS students, may be limited based on enrollment and degree status. We encourage you to thoroughly review the financial aid information, and checklist of required forms, on the Student Financial Services (SFS) website (Apply for Financial Aid section) at http://www.sfs.upenn.edu

Tuition Reduction Requests

Many majors will require courses not offered through LPS, and students may wish to fulfill the Foreign Language Requirement with a language not offered through LPS. In such cases, students will need to enroll in courses offered through the School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) or the Penn Language Center (PLC), which are usually billed at a higher tuition rate. Tuition Reduction is offered to LPS students who submit the Tuition Reduction Request form by the published deadline for each SAS or PLC undergraduate course meeting all qualifying criteria below. The bill for approved courses will be reduced to the LPS tuition rate. Students are strongly advised to submit their TRRs as early as possible before the start of classes, and seek clarification from the LPS Advisor regarding eligibility.

IMPORTANT NOTE: SAS and LPS graduate-courses above the 599 level, and ALL courses offered through other schools at Penn (such as Wharton, Nursing, Engineering, etc.) are NOT eligible for tuition reduction under any circumstances, regardless of use toward major requirements. Students enrolled in such courses are responsible for the tuition rates of the division offering the course.

In order to identify courses offered by other schools or divisions of Penn, check the section number of the course. LPS undergraduate courses billed at the discounted rate can be identified by the following section numbers:

LPS Fall and Spring: -601 through -609 LPS Summer: -900 through -909

GENERAL UNIVERSITY POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

THE PENN BOOK
The Penn Book is a collection of policies that relate to student life at the University of Pennsylvania. These policies govern academic activities such as grading and exams, provide guidance on the use of campus resources, and explain membership in the university community. The University of Pennsylvania reserves the right to rescind admission to a student in violation of its codes of conduct and/or personal responsibilities policies. All students are expected to have read and understood these codes and policies—which are published at the link below—before coming to campus.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
The fundamental purpose of the University as an academic community is the pursuit of knowledge. Essential to the success of this educational mission is a commitment to the principles of academic integrity. Academic work represents not only what we have learned about a subject but also how we have learned it. Values and beliefs about academic integrity have been adopted by scholars so that others may trace our honorable footsteps, verify what we have learned, and build upon our work. Every member of the University community is responsible for upholding the highest standards of honesty at all times.

As members of the University community, students are also responsible for adhering to the principles and spirit of the Code of Academic Integrity. Penn believes strongly in the importance of academic integrity. Students who violate its precepts are subject to punishment through the judicial system. Ignorance of the rules is no excuse. If a student is unsure whether his or her action(s) constitute a violation of the Code of Academic Integrity, it is that student’s responsibility to consult with the instructor to clarify any ambiguity.

The best strategy for maintaining academic integrity is to avoid situations where academic dishonesty might occur. When in doubt, cite. There are many publications, such as the Chicago Manual of Style or the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers (which has been placed in Rosengarten Reserve by the Honor Council), that provide information about methods of proper citation. Failure to acknowledge sources is plagiarism, regardless of intention.

- Consult with instructors about assignments.
- Plan ahead to leave sufficient time to complete work.
- Contact the Weingarten Learning Resources Center for help with time management and study strategies.
- For more information, consult the Office of Student Conduct.

PRIVACY OF STUDENT INFORMATION
In college, students' academic and medical records are considered their own property. Penn's policy regarding student information is that students are adults, and the University generally will not share their academic and other records (apart from directory information) with third parties.
without their explicit consent. This is in accordance with the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act. Though there are situations in which the University can choose to divulge information without a student's consent (for example, if they are listed as dependents on their parents' tax returns), for the most part, students must decide who has access to their academic record. They can indicate whether or not they wish their parents or others to see their educational records using the Privacy Settings screen on Penn InTouch.

As students begin their careers at Penn, it is very important for them to think carefully about their own responsibility and to have a discussion with their families about these confidentiality rules. LPS expects students to be aware of their grades, course registration and all other aspects of their academic career. The Penn InTouch system provides 24-hour access to this information. The LPS advisor is there to help students make the most of their academic career, and the University provides a wide range of support services for both academic and non-academic concerns. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with these services and make use of them when appropriate. While there are many people at Penn who can help, ultimately it is the student who must take responsibility for the decisions he or she makes.

Student Registration and Financial Services (SRFS) recognizes the importance of protecting the privacy of student and applicant records under the University’s Policy on the Confidentiality of Student Records, personally identifiable information from a student or applicant’s record generally may not be disclosed except with the student’s written permission. SRFS also requires individuals to properly secure access to student data via desktop hardware/software and printed manual records.

Restrictions on Disclosing Student Information

In general, University faculty and staff may not disclose personally identifiable information from a student or applicant’s records except with the student’s written consent. Some of the most common exceptions to this rule are:

To school officials with a “legitimate educational interest”- in other words, where the information is required or would be helpful in the performance of his or her duties, or in the pursuit of an enterprise sanctioned by the University;
To parents, if the parent properly documents that the student is a dependent for tax purposes;
As required by other law. (If an office receives a subpoena, court order or other legal papers soliciting student records, please contact the Office of General Counsel).
University faculty and staff may disclose directory information, such as name, address, telephone number, and other designated demographic data, without the student’s consent, unless the student has chosen to object to such disclosure by “opting-out.” Students can exercise their right to opt-out by contacting the University Registrar’s Office. See also Penn Directory.

As a general rule, University faculty and staff must inform any recipient of student records that they may not redisclose that information unless they obtain the student’s written consent.

Summary of University Policy on the Privacy of Student Records
A summary of University policy on the privacy of student records, which includes rights under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“FERPA”), often referred to as the “Buckley Amendment”, is available at this link.

Students at LPS who believe that their circumstances might warrant an exception from an LPS rule or requirement may submit a petition. They may do so by filling out a petition form and writing a statement. In this petition statement, the student must demonstrate why he or she feels that this exemption should be allowed. If extenuating circumstances such as health or family troubles are cited, proper documentation will be necessary.

If the reviewing committee decides that the case does not warrant exception, the petition will be denied. Decisions are final. Students may appeal a decision only if they can present additional information or documentation.

The Petition Process
The student must first discuss the issue with the LPS Advisor to discuss options, responsibilities, resources and support services that may pertain to the student’s circumstances and serve to inform best strategy toward student success. The student may submit a petition, which will be evaluated by the Petitions Committee. Petitions for waivers of deadlines submitted during the semester in which the student is enrolled in the course are heard by Petitions Committee.

The Petitions Committee meets at regular intervals throughout the school year. The committee will consider the student’s petition statement and any supplementary materials (such as medical documentation) that the student submits. The student will be notified of the committee’s decision, usually within a few days of the committee meeting. Petitions are submitted through lps@sa.upenn.edu; “Petitions Committee” should be inserted into the subject line. Hardcopy petitions may also be submitted to the LPS Office.

Petitions for Seniors
It is possible that students who are waiting for a decision from the Petitions Committee on a petition submitted regarding graduation requirements may not be cleared in time for graduation. It is, therefore, important to submit any necessary petitions as early as possible.

TRANSCRIPTS
All courses taken for credit at the University of Pennsylvania before a student receives an undergraduate degree are recorded on the student's undergraduate transcript. At the date of graduation, the transcript is closed, i.e., no changes may be made thereafter.
Students can view their undergraduate transcript on Penn InTouch and request official copies of their transcript from the Office of the Registrar.

POLICY ON COMMON MIDTERM EXAMINATIONS
Instructors teaching a course with multiple sections who plan to schedule a common midterm examination outside the class’s regular meeting time must notify students of this event during the first week of the semester and be prepared to offer one or more make-up examinations to accommodate any student who is enrolled in a course that meets at the time of the common examination. Students enrolled in a course that conflicts with the time of a common midterm examination must notify the instructor administering the common midterm examination of the conflict by the end of the course selection (add) period. Students may not be required to miss their regularly scheduled class.

The University Rules Governing Final Examinations can be read in their entirety at the above link.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF STUDENT RECORDS
The purpose of this policy is to describe the rights and responsibilities of students, faculty and staff regarding the confidentiality of student records, including as specified under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“FERPA”). The policy can be read in the Penn Book in its entirety at the above link.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE, RELATIONSHIP VIOLENCE AND STALKING POLICY
This policy, which prohibits behaviors that are more generally addressed by the University’s Sexual Harassment Policy, applies to faculty, students, staff, and visitors to the University campus and facilities. All forms of sexual violence, relationship violence, domestic violence and stalking, and attempts to commit such acts, are considered to be serious misconduct and may result in disciplinary action up to and including expulsion or termination of employment. In addition, such acts violate federal, state and local laws, and perpetrators of such acts may be subject to criminal prosecution.

Specific guidance for students is provided in the "Student Guidelines for the University of Pennsylvania Sexual Violence Policy" created by the Penn Women’s Center.

The Sexual Relationship Violence and Stalking Policy can be read in its entirety in the Penn Book.

Student disciplinary procedures for resolving complaints of sexual assault, sexual violence, relationship violence and stalking

The University of Pennsylvania is committed to providing a safe and healthy environment, free of gender-based misconduct, to all members of our community and visitors to our community. As such, sexual assault, sexual violence, relationship violence, and stalking will not be tolerated. In order to ensure the creation of a climate where students are able to thrive and achieve their full potential, the University has developed a wide range of policies, educational programs, broad-based resources, support, and reporting systems. This amendment to the Student Disciplinary Charter supplements these other policies and initiatives, addressing the process by which complaints against an enrolled University student for a violation of the Sexual Violence, Relationship Violence and Stalking Policy (“Sexual Violence Policy”) will be adjudicated and resolved. The University Disciplinary Procedures can be read in their entirety at: https://provost.upenn.edu/policies/pennbook/2015/02/18/student-disciplinary-procedures-for-resolving-complaints-of-sexual-assault-sexual-violence-relationship-violence-and-stalking
