Ancient Chinese Civilization: Bibliography of Materials in Western Languages

Paul R. Goldin

March 20, 2018 (updated regularly)

This bibliography aims to be inclusive from the Neolithic through the pre-Buddhist era and contains nearly 12,000 entries. Earlier Stone Age cultures, as well as Neolithic cultures from regions beyond the Yellow and Yangzi River Valleys and areas such as prehistoric Taiwan are not comprehensively covered. Please do not hesitate to inform the compiler of errors or omissions, which are inevitable in a project of this scope.

For the sake of conciseness, anthologies of papers by a single author are listed only once, under title of the volume. (The original bibliographical information of any articles revised or reprinted in such anthologies is omitted, as are the original details of articles that were later expanded into or incorporated within a book by the same author.) Book reviews, articles in encyclopedias and newsletters, exhibition catalogues, and unscholarly works for popular audiences are not normally included. The original publication date of a work that was subsequently translated or re-issued sometimes appears at the end of a citation in brackets.

Other notes: Capitalization errors in English titles are corrected silently wherever I catch them, and I do not capitalize Chinese terms that are not proper names (such as qi 氣). Romanized Chinese names are alphabetized by syllable (for example, Qizhi comes before Qiong). Surnames containing “von,” “van,” “de,” etc. are alphabetized according to the author’s preference—to the best of my knowledge.

Many thanks to all the colleagues who have helped over the years.
