Teaching Workshop for New Faculty
SAS New Faculty Orientation
Friday, Aug. 28, 2020, 12:30-2:00

Welcome: Bruce Lenthall, Executive Director, Center for Teaching and Learning (lenthall@upenn.edu)

Discussion with new faculty and faculty panel:

1. What impact do you want your teaching to have on your students?

2. How do you build community in your class? How do you help your students to see themselves engaged in a collective intellectual enterprise?

3. How do you encourage your students to do the thinking you value?

4. How do you signal that all of your students belong in your class?

5. Your first years teaching at Penn

Faculty panel:
Brenda Casper, Professor of Biology (bcasper@sas.upenn.edu)
Phil Gressman, Professor of Mathematics (gressman@math.upenn.edu)
Heather Sharkey, Professor of Near Eastern Languages & Civilizations (hsharkey@sas.upenn.edu)

Additional participant:
Kent Peterman, Director of Academic Affairs, Associate Dean, College of Arts and Sciences (peterman@sas.upenn.edu)

Resources of note:
 CTL website: https://www.ctl.upenn.edu/
Includes links to discussions and events related to teaching, strategies for teaching, offices and resources across Penn that can support your teaching, and contact information for CTL.

 Preparing to teach online: https://www.ctl.upenn.edu/resources-and-strategies-teaching-remotely
Suggestions for designing and teaching online, and introductions to relevant technologies to do so.

 Inclusive and equitable teaching:
https://www.ctl.upenn.edu/evidence-based-strategies-and-practices
Evidence-based teaching strategies and practices.

 Structure of College curriculum: https://www.college.upenn.edu/curriculum
Explains various elements and requirements of College curriculum.

 To be added to CTL’s listserv of events and discussions of teaching, write to Bruce Lenthall.